Town Manager Says Old Town Hall Not Big Enough For Groups

By Frank Messina

A top town official feels space limitations would hamper civic groups looking to move into Old Town Hall.

Although the selectmen have the final say about who will move into the building when restoration is completed sometime early next year, Town Manager Ken Mahony said the configuration of Old Town Hall's bottom floor would cramp large groups of people.

The bottom floor, about 3,100 square feet of area, is broken into a catacomb of rooms which would make it difficult to permanently house two groups who have expressed interest in using the facility: senior citizens and teenagers, said Mahony.

"It would almost be like hiring a person for a job that they can't succeed at," said Mahony. Instead of letting "the limitations you set on (a teen or senior center) it doom it to failure, do it the right way and have it be a success."

One much-discussed possibility for a teen and/or senior center is the downtown post office, which is scheduled to be abandoned in December when the postal service

Andover votes 89% Turnout Higher Than Expected

By Julie M. Barry

Andover voters turned out in full force to cast ballots in Tuesday's election.

The turnout, about 89 percent, was higher than expected, according to Town Clerk Elden Salter, who said the voting process ran smoothly in both Dunn Gymnasium and the Andover Senior Center. The flow of voters was steady all day long, he said, with an extra surge after work until the polls closed at 8 p.m.

Andover voters favored George Bush in the presidential election. Bush, an alumnus of Phillips Academy, led the race with 56 percent of Andover's votes.

Gov. Michael Dukakis carried his home state of Massachusetts, but he wasn't a winner in the Andover polls, receiving only 41 percent of the votes.

PA, though proud of its 1942 graduate, isn't planning any type of celebration in honor of Bush's win, said assistant headmaster Beverly Henderson. Instead, the school, which has remained neutral throughout the campaign, will send a congratulatory note to the new president of the United States, she said.

Following are Andover's election results:

Senator in Congress: Democrat Edward Kennedy, 54 percent; Republican candidate, Joseph Malone, 44 percent.

Representative in Congress: Democrat Chester Atkins, 83 percent; Libertarian T. David Hudson, 16 percent.

Senator in the General Court: Democrat Patricia McGovern, 56 percent; Republican William Melahn, 43 percent.

Essex County Commissioner (Two candidates): Republican Everett Hudson, 40 percent; Democrat Marguerite Kane, 39 percent; Democrat John O'Brien, 20 percent.

The following candidates won their uncontested races:

Councillor: Democrat John F. Markey

Representative in the General Court: Democrat Susan Tucker

Clerk of Courts: Democrat James Leary

Register of Deeds: Democrat Thomas Burke

County Commissioner: Democrat Charles Arena (to fill vacancy)

With the exception of question two, the majority of Andover voters leaned towards the state-wide results on the Massachusetts ballot questions.

Question One: Approve pay raises for legislators, other state officials? Seventy eight percent voted no, 21 percent, yes.

Question Two: Repeal prevailing wage law? Forty four percent voted no, 55 percent, yes. (The no vote carried the state.)

Question Three: Require new regulations protecting farm animals from abuse? Seventy three percent voted no, 26 percent, yes.

Special Needs Group Meets

The Parents Advisory Council for children with special needs will meet Nov. 16 at 7:30 p.m. on the third floor of the school administration building. They will be sponsoring a workshop entitled Parent-Teacher Communication Skills.

Elizabeth Viehmann, a member of the outreach and training team from the Anne Sullivan Early Childhood Center in Tewksbury, will facilitate the presentation.

Parents will learn steps in building productive parent-professional relationships, said Pat Pakos, 766 PAC president, and strategies for effective communication will be presented.

Part of the discussion will focus specifically on the various stages of the Chapter 766 process and parents will take part in small group problem-solving activities to identify additional strategies for good communication, said Pakos.

Timber Harvest Underway

The Town of Andover has contracted with Ralph A. Esty & Sons, inc. of Groveland to harvest timber and firewood at three sites under the control of the conservation commission. These sites are located off Haggetts Pond Road and High Plain Road and are within the watershed of Haggetts Pond and Fish Brook.

For safety reasons these sites will be posted at major entrances as being temporarily closed to the public during the forestry operations for an estimated six to eight weeks, commencing immediately.

The selective cutting is part of a long-range management plan approved by the conservation commission. Trees selected for cutting at this time have been marked for the town by a professional forester who will supervise the operation.

Parking Ban To Begin

The Andover Police Department reminds town residents that the all-night parking ban will go into effect Thursday, Dec. 1, at 1 a.m. Vehicles parked on the street between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m. will be tagged. Vehicles will not be allowed to park overnight in any of the town municipal lots or on any school property. Any vehicle that hinders snow plowing or removal will be towed. This ban will remain in effect until April 1, 1989.

Police Film Available

An 11-minute slide presentation called "A Tradition of Service" has been produced by the Andover Police Department and is available to be shown by members of the department to any organizations interested. The purpose of this presentation is to give a better understanding of the roll of the police officer within the community. Changes in society have affected the work of the police department. Today's police officer is called upon to fulfill a number of other rolls that most residents never see. This presentation was introduced at a selectmen's meeting in September and shown again to the on-site assessment team during its visit to the department for its accreditation.

Any group interested in the slide presentation should contact the community service unit of the Andover Police Department. For further information, contact Lt. Donald Mooers.

To Honor Swift

An evening for Richard Swift, retired Director of Physical Education and Athletics in Andover, will be held Nov. 26.

Anyone interested in tickets for the event should contact Athletic Director Dick Bourdelais at the high school.

Planners Meet With LWV

Members of the Andover Planning Department and the Planning Board will meet with the League of Women Voters Thursday, Nov. 10, at 7:30 p.m. at Memorial Auditorium at Doherty Middle School. The League of Women Voters is conducting a study of town growth and development. A component of that study is a comparisson of the master plans and planning processes of 12 other communities in Massachusetts. The planning department is presenting their executive summary of Andover's master plan and is seeking input from the Andover league and other interested citizens.

To Discuss

Insurance

The Andover Haven Associates will meet Thursday, Nov. 17, at 1:30 p.m. at the Andover Commons. There will be a lecture and discussion on the new health insurance coverages. Refreshments will be served.

Fundraiser Gets Rave Reviews

Mrs. Carol Stephens of Andover, chairman of the successful fall dinner dance fundraiser for Vision House at the Andover Marriott on Friday, Oct. 28, received "rave reviews" from the crowd of 410 people. Stephens and her committee, consisting of Dorothy Darwin, Jacqueline Conner, Shirley Margerison, Evelyn Chedekel, Rose Burns and Norma Eisenberg, created the balloon and flower ensembles and coordinated the large ticket sales which allowed Vision House to obtain a $10,000 "challenge grant" from the Stevens Foundation of North Andover. Vision House presented Stephens with a plaque in appreciation for the fine work of the committee.

The dinner dance was hosted by WZOU's radio celebrities Susan Darwin and Mike Adams and attended by Dolores Handy and Matt Lauer of Channel 7, Dale Arnold (voice of the New England Patriots), Dawn Fratangelo of Channel 5, Listo Fisher of WHDH, Representatives Sue Tucker and Jim Miceli and Sen. Nick Costello.

Eisenberg, president and founder of Vision House, was surprised by Miceli and Costello, who brought special citations from the Massachusetts House of Representatives, State Senate and Gov. Michael Dukakis, honoring her work the past four years on behalf of the head-injured of Merrimack Valley through Vision House, state and national organizations.

Gary Travis and Company provided entertainment and donated a check to the cause. Margerison sang a moving song, "I'm Still Me," written by David Michaelson. The management and staff of the Andover Marriott helped make this the most successful event in Vision House history, setting the stage for Phase II of the Vision House plan, obtaining a central facility for Vision House's services and programs.

Area Firefighters Honored

Honored by the Exchange Club of the Andovers, were from left, Firefighters Andrew Sullivan, North Andover; Raymond MacLean, North Andover; John Ronan, Andover and William Tomkiewicz, club president.

The Exchange Club of the Andovers presented their annual firefighters awards to three men who, while off-duty, performed cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and were credited with saving the victims' lives. More than 100 people were present when the awards were presented at a dance on Oct. 28.

North Andover firefighter Andrew Sullivan saved the life a three-year-old child who had been pulled from the water at the town's bathing beach. Sullivan, enjoying the day at the beach with his family, began CPR and continued to monitor the baby's vital signs until the North Andover ambulance arrived.

Raymond MacLean, also of North Andover, was witness to the accidental electrocution of a Mass. Electric Co. linesman. MacLean immediately began CPR. His quick action was credited with saving the man's life.

Andover firefighter John Ronan was waiting to cash a check at the Andover Bank in Andover when a customer in line collapsed. Finding no vital signs, Ronan began CPR and continued until the Andover ambulance arrived.

Each firefighter also received a citation from the Massachusetts House of Representatives, congratulating them for their outstanding service to their community.

Exchange is the oldest and largest service club in America. Its members' goals include building a stronger America through youth, Americanism and community service programs. The national program of service is the National Exchange Club Foundation for the Prevention of Child Abuse. The foundation is responsible for providing the necessary funds for the services offered in the 44 centers across the nation.

State Committed To Recycling

By Virginia Cole

Have you been reading bout the new commitment the Commonwealth has made to recycling? Most of the headlines say a moratorium on incinerators, but if you keep reading, they also say mandatory composting of leaves, grass, etc., and laws changing packaging to cut down on the trash we all bring into our homes.

Now there are other articles I read belaboring Massachusetts for not doing all this five or ten years ago. Of course, I wish they had, but it seems to me it is the time to take the positive approach (someone has to) and support as well as take advantage of new regulations for lessening the trash flow to our incinerator.

This program for Massachusetts is said to be the most ambitious in the nation. Putting a one-year moratorium on building new incinerators is really to give recycling a chance. Recycling and waste reduction will be top priorities by the state and they will help with a much more active pro-environment stance. Daniel Greenbaum of the DEQE is the prime mover here and he is acknowledging the mistakes of the past and must prove there are better ways than more incinerators to dispose of waste. The main approaches outlined so far are setting a goal of 10 percent less waste by the year 2000; by reducing packaging habits, creating a network of recycling plants (the MRFs) we've been looking for and getting the leaves and yard wastes into composting programs.

The Massachusetts waste haulers, landfill operators and trash burners are endorsing these propositions. Mass. Audubon Society and other environmentalists are urging cooperation. Now what about Andover?

Has anyone found a street where at least half the people are recycling paper? Why aren't you? Nothing could be easier than putting it out every other week separated from your trash. One person has written the Board of Selectmen to urge a permanent glass

Nadeau To Head Food Appeal

Colin Nadeau, regional vice president for Marriott Hotels, will direct a massive food appeal being undertaken by local Boy Scouts of America in November in conjunction with a national Good Turn conducted by the 5.2-million member youth organization.

As chairman of the North Essex Council's Scouting for Food Good Turn, Nadeau will direct the efforts of an estimated 2,300 youth from up to 60 scouting units Nov. 12 and 19 as they distribute and then retrieve collection bags. The local council has set a goal of 10,000 bags.

Nadeau pointed out that the Boy Scouts' national Good Turn is designed to provide direct help to the more than 20 million Americans who go hungry at some time every month and to focus nationwide attention on the continuing problem. He said the scouts will seek canned goods with an emphasis on food most needed for good nutrition.

Celebrating 100 Years With The Best Pages In Andover's History

Andover Postmaster Antonio Mendoza poses with his daughter, Glorivee, who is an entrant in the upcoming Miss Massachusetts-U.S.A. pageant.

Seeks Miss Massachusetts Title

Glorivee Mendoza has the chance to be the next Miss Massachusetts.

She has been selected as an entrant in the Miss Massachusetts-U.S.A. pageant to be held Nov. 25-27 at the Sheraton Lincoln Grand Ballroom in Worcester.

Mendoza, daughter of Antonio and Zory Mendoza of North Main Street, is a freshman at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, where she is studying introductory law. She plays the tenor saxophone in the Minute Man Marching Band.

Mendoza, a 1988 graduate of Andover High School, was chosen Miss Hispanic last June during Hispanic Week in Lawrence.

While at Andover High, Mendoza was a member of the volleyball team and the marching band. She was also a member of the church choir. Other hobbies include traveling, reading and music.

Wearing a costume that's descriptive of her representative town is one of the pageant's requirements, and Mendoza will wear an Indian outfit to portray Andover.

The state pageant will select the Massachusetts representative to the Miss USA Pageant, which will be nationally televised by CBS in Feb. 1989.

AT OUR SCHOOLS

Workshop Helps Kids Listen

By Lesley Brammer

About 70 Andover High School students learned how to better express their opinions and to listen respectfully at a leadership and planning day last month.

The workshop, held at West Parish Church, attracted students from all four grades at Andover High. Science teacher Robert King talked about the importance of caring, listening and positive thinking, which he said are all attributes of a leader. The participants, who included students and faculty from the Student Advisory Board and Student Government, agreed that the speech, delivered with humor and insight, was an effective one.

Keeping King's words in mind, SAB worked on plans for the year. The group was established to help students who have problems with teachers, schools rules or other students. Board members meet with and interview the troubled student and, based on his or her previous offenses and past school citizenship, write up a contract to send to the administration. According to Andover High's handbook, the contract "spells out the conditions which will help a student avoid further disciplinary action."

The 30 or so members of SAB are willing to help and get involved with kids they do not know and in some cases try to get them out of trouble. "I thought it was great working in separate groups, planning how we're going to deal with problem situations," said SAB member Stephanie Couture, a junior.

How is the board going to deal with the often complicated problems they hear?

During the workshop, the students established the criteria for SAB membership. For example, students said the board should be caring, confidential and convincing and confident in their opinions. Members should also be able to give constructive criticism to the student in trouble.

"There was a real sense of caring," said Debbie Sullivan, adding that the atmosphere at the workshop was positive. The students, with the help of faculty adviser Peggy Cain, got a chance at a dry run by examining a past case and the results.

While SAB was in session, the student house government's 56 members were also focusing on leadership activities. The students and teachers studied the school's constitution.

House faculty member Vern Friesse said the student government's meeting was successful. "The new freshmen and sophomores were ecstatic. Everyone was tuned in," she said.

There are 15 new students and five new faculty members in the "House" this year.

The government worked on a mock proposal and practiced communication and listening skills members will use during House meetings, which are held in the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts. The meetings take up the X-period block every two weeks, and the entire student body may attend. Student government member receive proposals from students or teachers who are interested in changing or adding to the school's atmosphere.

Brammer is a junior at Andover High.

260 AHS Students Take SATs

By Julie M. Barry

The halls are usually quiet and empty on weekends at Andover High School. But last Saturday was different.

About 325 high school students from the area were registered to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test and Achievement Tests; 260 of those were Andover High juniors and seniors.

The SAT is a multiple choice test that measures a student's verbal and math skills. It is offered five times a year at the high school.

Since SATs are required for admittance into most colleges, the majority of Andover High School students take the exam, according to Ruby Easton, the high school's head guidance counselor. "We encourage students to take it in the spring of their junior year and in the fall of their senior year," Easton said.

Although SATs are usually necessary for students furthering their education, the three-hour exam is not the most important factor for admission to college, said Peg Cain, high school guidance counselor. How heavily a student's SAT scores are weighed varies from college to college, she said.

Colleges consider many factors in their selection process. The main factors, Cain said, are students' high school academic program, their grades and their class rank.

Other factors include extracurricular activities, recommendations and the application essay.

The verbal section of the SAT tests vocabulary, verbal reasoning and understanding what's been read. There are four types of questions: antonyms, analogies, sentence completions and reading comprehension.

The math section tests a student's ability to solve problems involving arithmetic, elementary algebra and geometry. There are two types of questions in this section: computation and quantitative comparison, which emphasize the concepts of equalities, inequalities and estimation.

Last year, the average scores of Andover High students were above the national level. The verbal average at Andover High was 459; the math, 513.

Nationally, the average verbal score was 430; math was 476.

If a student takes the exam more than once, the highest score in each of the categories is considered by colleges.

Two courses—College Review English and College Review Math—are offered at the high school to help students prepare for the exam.

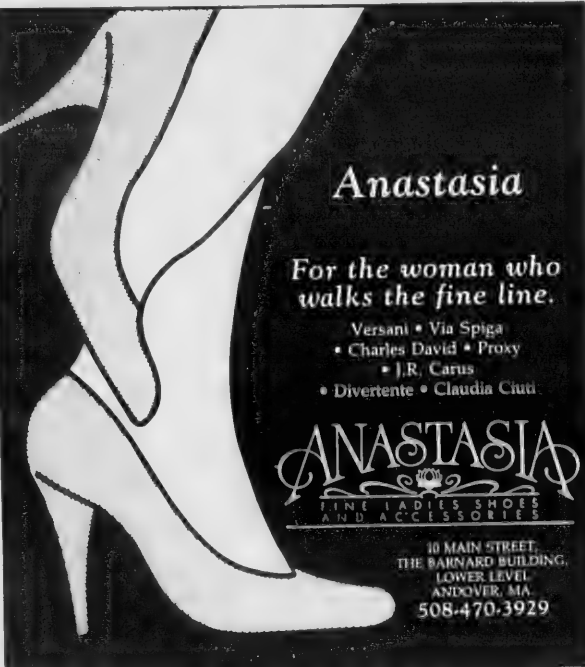

Students also receive a pamphlet, "Taking the SAT," when they register for the exam. It includes test-taking strategies and a sample test.

The Achievement Tests are offered at Andover High four times each year. These tests measure a student's knowledge in a particular subject, like English, foreign language, history, mathematics and science. There are 14 one-hour Achievement exams offered.

Fewer students take these tests because not all colleges require Achievement Test scores for admittance.

South School Serves 450 Subs

South Elementary School held its annual sub supper last month. Organizers said it was a success with 450 subs served to families and teachers. South's cafeteria was full as people lined up for Italian subs served by a group of dedicated volunteers. The hit of the evening was the dessert assortment provided by the first-graders' parents.

Western Roundup

By Joanna Moynihan

Last week was a busy one at West Middle School. The week started with sixth- and seventh-grade assemblies on peer pressure and drugs.

Bob Wiggins of Narcanon visited eighth-grade students on Tuesday and talked about drugs and alcohol.

Pepsi sponsored a program called "Stars" on Wednesday. The three-screen show aired the problems of drugs, drinking and some of today's other major issues.

The student government held a Halloween dance on Friday for seventh- and eighth-graders. Everyone was dressed in costumes, some of which portrayed President Reagan, M & Ms, animals and, of course, a lot of monsters, witches and ghosts.

Today the school is holding a mock presidential election. Students had to register in order to take part in voting.

Doherty PAC Discusses Events

Doherty Middle School's Parent Advisory Committee met last month to discuss upcoming student activities and hear Housemaster Kathy Blain provide an update on the school.

PAC President Eileen Novelline gave an overview of Doherty's recent open house. According to Novelline, the PAC membership drive held at open house proved a success, and treasury funds stand at an all-time high.

Blain informed the committee that Principal Richard McGrail and Housemaster Bruce Maki were unable to attend the meeting due to a week-long educational conference in Newport, R.I., focusing on "drug-free schools."

Discussing the school curriculum, Blain noted that all classes will participate in interdisciplinary units this year. Sixth-graders have completed a unit on Mexico while seventh-graders are incorporating the theme of "water" into their studies. In addition to speakers and special projects, seventh-grade students will take an oceanographic field trip. Focusing on the topic "From Farm to Factory," eighth-graders traveled to Sturbridge Village last week and will continue their research with other related projects.

Blain announced the results of the recent student council elections and said the process had been a very lively one. Candidates had to file nomination papers, run in primaries and deliver a campaign speech over the intercom. Newly-elected officers are Heather Norton, president; Adrian Popodopopous, vice president; Julie Doherty, secretary; and Tina Tung, treasurer.

Blain said the eighth grade planned to run a mock presidential election.

The housemaster spoke briefly on several recent assemblies, which delivered an anti-drug message. These included a multi-media, three-screen "Star" assembly and a Narconon program called "Drugs and the Media." Sixth-graders will have a special anti-drug presentation in November.

Other student activities discussed were the current magazine drive, the intramural, after-school sports program and the Academic Bowl competitions. According to Blain, the Doherty Outing Club is getting underway with Lana Hanson and Stephen Crowley as advisers. There will be an open enrollment for all three grades. The chess club will also start up again.

Doherty will host the opening meeting for the Greater Lawrence Collaborative Leadership Institute on Nov. 15. Seventh- and eighth-graders are eligible for the area leadership program.

The PAC will hold its next meeting to-night at 7:30 in the Media Center at Doherty.

INTRODUCING SPECTRUM 2 RADAR DETECTOR WITH PULSE PROTECTION.

Only Whistler Spectrum 2® can warn drivers when pulse radar (more commonly known as the instant-on gun) is present. When it senses pulse radar, Spectrum 2 sounds a special intrusion alarm and flashes the letter "P" on its digital display. No other radar detector provides this kind of protection.

Of course, Spectrum 2 delivers superior sensitivity that conclusively detects police radar on the straightaways, over hills and even around curves. This is the kind of performance that's made Spectrum 2 a winner in seven of ten 1987 car & Driver tests. It also features a digital display for easy reading and an exclusive three year warranty.

The Raytheon people of Andover. Doing America proud.

All in all, there are 6,600 Raytheon employees at Andover. Building the most reliable air defense systems in the world.

So reliable, that this facility has been selected as a "Certified Contractor" by the U.S. Government. It's a unique distinction. It means the U.S. Army has reduced its on-site inspections at Andover.

Because we deliver on schedule.

And we exceed the Army's reliability standards.

The Army has even asked us to write up quality guidelines for other defense contractors.

Stringent quality control is fundamental at Raytheon.

Hiring the best people we can find is fundamental, too. We've found and hired thousands of them in New England.

Thank you, Andover.
You've done us proud.

Students Adopt Heroes' Names

Betsy Ross met George Washington Carver, Amelia Earhart compared notes with Abe Lincoln, and Beverly Sills talked shop with Beethoven. Famous men and women sprang from the pages of history and the arena of current events and walked the corridors of Doherty Middle School in Andover as sixth-graders assumed new personas for Biography Day.

Members of the sixth-grade class chose a biography or autobiography to read. In addition to taking notes on their "character," the students were required to write a one-minute speech to be delivered in the first person.

The sixth-graders arrived at school on Halloween dressed as their biographical choice. After delivering their oral presentation, they adjourned to the cafeteria for cider and doughnuts.

Members of the class had to remain in costume and in their persona for the whole day.

The actors resumed their own identities with the 2 p.m. bell, but teachers said Biography Day proved a unique and invaluable learning experience.

AHS Marchers Win Gold Medal

The Andover Golden Warriors Marching Band finished their competition season last Sunday by bringing home the gold. This was the band's first gold of the season and one of only three awarded to any of the 14 bands who competed in the first half Divisions I (eight) and II (six) of the New England Scholastic Band Association finals at Boston University's Nickerson Field.

Andover's impressive performance earned them 91.6 points (85 and above is gold). This 1988 marching band holds the honor of having earned the highest score in the high school band's eight years of competition.

Freshman Jeff Grace, on a couple of days' notice before the finals, was asked to learn the electrical bass parts for three songs as senior Rob Norris was unable to play due to a wrist injury.

The three first-place finishers in Division II were also the three bands of the 14 to receive gold medals: King Phillip (95.3), North Reading (92.8) and Andover (91.6). All the "bests" went to King Phillip. Other division finishers include: Division I, East Bridgewater (83.3), Bishop Feehan (82.6), Westwood (82.5); Division III, New Bedford (91.1), Triton, Portsmouth; Division IV, Dartmouth (95.6), Norwood, Blackstone-Millville.

Andover finished an outstanding fourth over all.

"The entire staff is proud of the achievements of the band this year in spite of the disappointing results," said band director Marc Keroack. "The band did all they were asked. We hoped that this would be recognized by the judges with a first-place finish. The results proved what I had said in the beginning of the year, that the competition was going to be tough. We were so strong that only three of the 28 bands competing Sunday received a higher score."

While the scores were being tabulated, the University of Massachusetts Marching Band took over the field in exhibition. The UMass Minuteman Marching Band, with more than 260 members—all wearing red jackets and black accessories—is a much sought-after band along the east coast. Band director George Parks brings forth an awesome sound and performance from them. The band this year boasts its largest membership. AHS alumni Kim Pass ('87), Glorivie Mendoza ('87) and Dave Friedenson, band photographer ('88) are members.

Andover High's marching band garnered a gold medal during competition Sunday at Boston University.

At the conclusion of the exhibition, drum majors band and front captains from each band marched across the field as they were announced. Drum majors Sue Boush and Kym O'Neill and color guard captain Jo Li represented Andover. Keroack, current president of NESBA, extended a thank you to all who came and participated in the day's event. Joseph Nee, NESBA's coordinator, presented the awards.

The remainder of Andover's marching band season includes football games (Nov. 12, 19 and 24); Veteran's Day performance with AHS chorus at Ballardvale Green (11:30 a.m., Nov. 11); Toys for Tots performance at the IRS (4-6 p.m., Nov. 30); and the Andover Santa Claus Parade in December.

"The entire staff is proud of the achievements of the band this year in spite of the disappointing results. We were so strong that only three of the 28 bands competing Sunday received a higher score."

BABY TALK

by Jack Resnick

As grandparents of a newborn child, you have a tremendous interest in your grandchild, which will affect the parents' and baby's lives in many ways. You (especially if you live close by) provide emotional support and often practical support to the new family. You may help with tasks that the new parents are unfamiliar with, or relieve them of responsibilities when they become tired. Having an experienced, concerned adult around will make their day-to-day routine go more smoothly. Your extra help will undoubtedly be welcome; however, remember you're entering a new situation - go slow!

Fabric Program At Museum

The Museum of American Textile History in North Andover will present "Family Fiber to Fabric" in the Children's Room of Memorial Hall Library Saturday, Nov. 26, at 10:30 a.m.

Participants in this free program will learn to pick, card, spin and weave wool. Members of the museum's interpretive staff will teach these skills using carders, drop spindles and table looms during the 1½ hour program.

"Through this interactive program, we hope to awaken an appreciation of the social and economic factors at work in early America," says Robert M. Brown, the museum's public programs supervisor.

"In addition, each participant will be given a free pass to the museum so he or she can see how the preindustrial skills learned in this program relate to the industrial machinery in operation at the museum."

This program is supported, in part, by the Massachusetts Arts Lottery as administered by the Lawrence Commission on the Arts.

Reagan, Gorbachev Receive Beyond War Award

President Ronald Reagan and General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev will receive the 1988 Beyond War Award in a ceremony broadcast via satellite on Saturday, Nov. 19, at 7:30 p.m. Merrimack Valley residents can view the award at the McQuade Library Auditorium of Merrimack College in North Andover.

Reagan and Gorbachev are being honored for changing the superpower relationship from open hostility to cautious cooperations, thereby reducing the threat of global annihilation and increasing the hope that all war can be eliminated.

Newburyport volunteer Bill Jenks, who is helping to organize the local ceremonies, was asked about the choice for this year's award. "As we contemplate the events of the past 12 months, most of us realize that the actions of the two world leaders have created the possibility of ending the cold war," he said. "This is a major change which can lead to improved security for all the people of the world."

AN UNSTAINED REPUTATION

Wool used to be the fiber of choice for carpeting. This natural fiber, however, is relatively expensive, relegating it to a position of only one percent of all carpet produced today. While still a superior product, wool is being upstaged by nylon. This man-made fiber has excellent durability and comes in a wide range of colors. In its earlier years, nylon had a reputation for static, staining, and becoming easily soiled. In its latest evolutionary form, nylon has become the king of soil and stain resistance. A breakthrough in anti-stain resin technology allows the new generation of nylon carpets to resist even fruit-juice spills. While prompt clean-ups are still necessary, a carpet with built-in fluorocarbon protection makes owning wall-to-wall carpeting nearly worry free.

To be sure you are pleased with the end results of your decorating start with a visit to GORHAM'S DECORATING CENTER. An incredible selection of custom made draperies, wall coverings and fabrics for reupholstering or slipcovers awaits you here at 581 Chickering Rd., Rt. 125, 685-4870 and all at prices you can afford. Visit with us and feel free to browse around at your leisure. We don't believe in using high pressure tactics as we realize that custom home decor takes time. MasterCard and Visa. Marshall's Moving To Shawsheen Marshall's, Inc., the nation's largest off-price retailer, has leased 300,000 square feet of office space at Brickstone Square/City North in Andover, Brickstone properties' one million square foot renovation in Andover. The lease is Boston's largest suburban office transaction this year.

Marshall's will relocate its corporate headquarters and 900 home office employees from two other sites in Wakefield and Woburn in June. Currently located at Brickstone's Harvard Mills, Marshall's Wakefield office consists of 110,000 first class office space which will now be available for lease.

"The consolidation of our two offices will increase our ability to communicate more effectively as an organization and Brickstone Square/City North will provide a pleasant working environment for all our home office employees," said Frank Arnone, CEO/president of Marshall's. "In looking at sites, we felt the growth was definitely north of 128 for the future." Marshall's will join two major New England companies, John Hancock and Gould Inc., at the complex. More than 60 percent of the project is now leased.

According to Paul Johnson, vice president of marketing at Brickstone Properties, Marshall's is the first major company other than a high-tech firm to move its corporate headquarters to I-495 in the last seven years.

"I think this is the beginning of a trend that's going to accelerate," said Martin Spagat, Brickstone Properties president. "The I-495 area has less traffic and congestion than Route 128 and the price differential between the two is a good $5 a square foot."

Brickstone has renovated more than three million square feet of mill space in the Greater Boston area during the last seven years.

Other major corporations located in Brickstone's six New England mills include Raytheon, Fanny Farmer, Metcalf & Eddy, Dexter Shoes, Provident Institute for Savings, Mellon Mutual Fund Services Group and Thinking Machines, Inc.

Brickstone Square/City North sits at the intersection of I-495 and Route 28, one mile north of the I-93 intersection. Comprised of three buildings on a 55-acre site, the property includes two five-story buildings and a ten-story tower, all unified by a landscaped central courtyard, which gives the complex a park-like atmosphere.

Buildings contain first-class office and R&D space. Brickstone Square/City North will offer a day care center, full-service cafeteria, well-lit parking for more than 3,000 cars and convenient access to public transportation and the MBTA commuter rail.

Leggat McCall/Grubb & Ellis, Inc. of Boston acted as a consultant to Brickstone on the Marshall's lease.

Record Sales At Standex

Standex International Corporation (NYSE) reported a 34 percent increase in earnings per share on a 4.4 percent increase in sales for the first fiscal quarter ended September 30, 1988, as compared with the prior year. Results were the highest for any first quarter in the company's history.

Thomas L. King, president and C.E.O., stated, "We are extremely pleased with the first quarter's results. Record sales were reported even though last year's figures included more than $7 million in shipments from Yield House, which was sold in March of this year. Sales on a comparable basis were up 12 percent for the quarter."

In the first fiscal quarter, net income totaled $5 million or 43 cents a share, as compared to the prior year's net income of $3.9 million or 32 cents a share. Sales for the three months ending Sept. 30 were $107.2 million, up from $102.8 million a year ago. Earnings per share were based on 11.7 million average shares outstanding.

King added, "With the negative earnings impact of Yield House now behind us, all divisions of the company are profitable. The acquisition of Custom Hoists in August of this year has contributed significantly to the earnings of Standex Precision Engineering."

Gillette Sales Gain

Sales, profit from operations and net income of The Gillette Company in the third quarter and for the nine months ended September 30, 1988, rose from those of the same period a year ago, reflecting the continuing success of strategies to accelerate earnings growth and cash flow, Colman M. Mockler, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, said recently.

Sales for the three months ended Sept. 30 were $845.7 million, an increase of 9 percent from $776.7 million for the same period in 1987. Profit from operations was $148.2 million, up 15 percent from $128.3 million a year earlier. Pretax income was $103.6 million, compared with $94.5 million in 1987, an increase of 10 percent. Net income of $63.9 million was up 9 percent from the $58.6 million reported in the same period last year.

Earnings per share of 57 cents compared with 51 cents a year earlier, an increase of 12 percent.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, sales rose 14 percent to $2.61 billion, compared with $2.30 billion in 1987. Profit from operations was $458.7 million, an increase of 19 percent from $386.9 million the year before. Pretax income was $339.4 million, up 17 percent from $29.3 million in the prior year. Net income was $207 million, compared with $171.6 million in 1987, an increase of 21 percent. Earnings per share of $1.82 compared with $1.49 the year before, an increase of 22 percent.

Sales and operating profits of Gillette North Atlantic in the third quarter were above the levels of a year ago and well above the prior year for the nine months.

Gillette International/Diversified Operations' sales for the third quarter rose above the level of the year before and operating profits were sharply higher. For the nine months, sales were well above the comparable period last year and operating profits rose sharply.

Net interest expense for the third quarter and the nine months was higher than in the prior year, while net exchange losses were lower in both periods. The effective tax rate was higher in the quarter, but lower for the nine months, compared with the year earlier.

The board of directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2½ cents per share, payable Dec. 5 to stockholders of record on Nov. 1.

Named Director At Hospital

Richard J. Iseke, M.D., has been appointed director of emergency medicine at Lawrence General Hospital. For the past five years, Iseke has been director of emergency services at Nashoba Community Hospital in Ayer, with a faculty appointment as assistant professor of medicine at the University of Massachusetts Medical School in Worcester.

He replaces Jose L. Silva, M.D. who has been director of emergency medicine for the past 13 years. Silva will devote his full attention to directing the new LGH work/health program, formerly known as the LGH Employee/Occupational Health Service, which he has directed since its inception in 1982.

Board certified in emergency medicine, Iseke is also a Diplomate in Internal Medicine, American Board of Internal Medicine, and a Fellow of the American College of Emergency Physicians.

He was previously associate director of emergency medicine services at Boston City Hospital with a faculty appointment as assistant professor in medicine at the Boston University School of Medicine.

After graduating from the University of Virginia Medical School, Charlottesville, VA, Iseke interned in medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital where he subsequently served as assistant resident and senior resident in the primary care program. He also holds a bachelor of arts degree from Hofstra University in Hempstead, N.Y. "Dr. Iseke has outstanding clinical capability as well as organizational and management expertise," says Joseph S. McManus, LGH president, "and he brings to Lawrence General Hospital skills to further develop emergency medicine as one of our focuses of excellence in the decade ahead."

Iseke was president of the Massachusetts Chapter of the American College of Emergency Physicians in 1987. He is currently involved in health services research under the auspices of the Massachusetts

Chapter of the American College of Emergency Physicians. He completed a research project in 1985 on emergency medicine for the Office of Emergency Medical Services, Department of Public Health, Boston, and recently spearheaded a study on malpractice issues in Massachusetts' emergency departments.

November Club House on Locke Street

Andover Clubs To Be Discussed

We might all be surprised by the figure if we added up all the clubs we have belonged to through the years. Clubs in their variety and the role they have played in the daily lives of Andover's people are the subject of the Andover Historical Society's Morning Coffee on Tuesday, Nov. 15, at 9:30 a.m. at the Amos Blanchard House, 97 Main St. Homemade refreshments will be served at the meeting which is open to the public.

While clubs today are something we often just manage to squeeze into our lives, they often served an important function in earlier times. Before television and radio, clubs informed their members about political, economic and religious issues as well as more light-hearted matters. In pre-automobile days, clubs provided opportunities for local people with common interests to get together and relieve their isolation.

Ethnic, educational, social, charitable, patriotic, cultural and recreational purposes inspired many clubs. One of the most prominent of Andover's clubs has been the November Club. It began as a literary, social and educational organization for Andover women and will celebrate its centennial next year. Its former clubhouse on Locke Street was the first such structure built in New England.

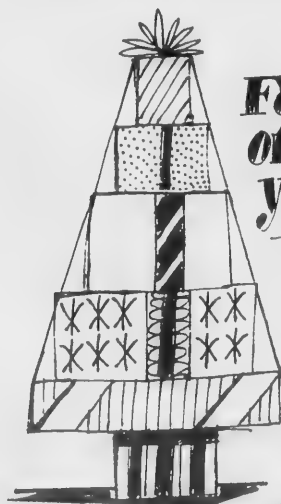

The Morning Coffee will be presented by committee members Barbara Loomer, chairman; Bernice Haggerty, Jan Henderson, Ruth Sharpe, Doris Newton, Ruth Sherwood and Mildred West. Morning Coffees were established to provide more information about the society's collections and to promote the preservation of local historic artifacts.

Al-Anon Group In Session

Al-Anon Family Group will meet Sundays from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the lower level of Cochran Chapel on Chapel Avenue on the Phillips Academy campus in Andover. The meeting will be in classroom 1; enter through the lower door on the Main Street side of the chapel. There is ample parking. This is a non-smoking meeting.

Moore Work On Exhibit

The Howard Yezerski Gallery in Boston announces an exhibition of recent work by Marjorie Moore entitled "Animal Matters." The show opens Nov. 12 and will be on view through Dec. 7.

Moore's recent work is beautifully painted, witty and thought provoking. Through the use of surrealist and theatrical effects, she transforms vignettes from the animal kingdom into a microcosmic look at human-animal interaction.

The major players on Moore's stage are always animals. Psychological dramas involving deer, moose, dogs and wolves are metaphors for human and animal behavior. In her earlier work the animals appeared on rough stages or platforms made of materials deriving from their natural habitat. Birch bark could peel back from the tree and croll up into stage curtains; a raised hill could become a small venue upon which animals watch each other perform. The theatrical setting, too, is a metaphor for the animal's loss of natural habitat. In the most recent work, animals strut with assurance across real stages, playing to an audience of their peers.

Although the players are animals, the human presence is implied through the voyeuristic vantage point provided by the artist. Quite often the drama is tragic, illustrating death and destruction caused by the constant blundering forward of civilization onto the "wild kingdom." This is one of Moore's most recurrent themes.

At other times, however, Moore infuses human traits into the animals by clothing them in shirts and trousers and playing to the fantasy of animals as people favored in illustration since the 19th century. To Moore, that fantasy stems from our desire to be closer to animals, to understand them better, but in the human world and terms, not in theirs. The animals in these paintings maintain a delightful aura of naivete and sophistication. In this context, humor is the "survival instinct" for the artist. It enables her to sustain momentum when faced with the possibility of impending loss of wild life.

Referring to myths and legends of several cultures, including Egyptian, American Indian and African, Moore has identified many of the same animals personified cross culturally. She is exploring the ancient phenomena of animals as deities and exploiting exposure to folklore, children's literature, wild life documentaries and the media, all of which shape our thinking about animals. Her newest series examines the mystical aspect and explores a personal realm where the animal/human fetish figure is a sorcerer and conjuror. This character has a wolf's head, puppet's body and humanoid hands and is Moore's own mythological figure. The conjuror is capable of transformation and is itself in the process of changing.

An opening reception for the artist will be held Saturday, Nov. 12, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Completes Peace Corps Work

Bill Lawrence, a native of Concord, Mass., recently returned home after completing his assignment as a Peace Corps volunteer in Morocco. Lawrence is a 1981 graduate of Phillips Academy and completed his degree in history and French at Duke University in 1985.

He decided to join the Peace Corps because of his interest in foreign languages and cultures. "(I was) interested in living in an ex-French colony in Africa to learn languages, gain experience and study culture," he said.

Lawrence taught high school English in Morocco for two years and was an assistant university professor for one year. He also worked on development projects in education, renewable energy and cultural exchange. His experience helped his career while benefiting the host nationals with whom he worked. For example, Lawrence learned Moroccan Arabic and some of two dialects of Berber. He is currently pursuing studies in international relations and development with a spe-

Becky Arnold, director of the Arnold Dance Foundation, has created an audio tape to help people on the go get exercise.

Develops Exercise Tape

The Arnold Dance Foundation in Andover has "jumped" into the fitness business with the production of "Easy Stretch," a 60-minute audio exercise tape for the home, car and office.

The concept for the tape came to Becky Arnold, director of ADF, when a commuter friend asked how he could use his time stuck in traffic to get exercise. So Arnold created a tape for busy people with busy schedules and designed a series of exercises for non-moving, stop-and-go traffic conditions. Some of the exercises can also be done in the office as a movement break. The reverse side of "Easy Stretch" contains a 30-minute exercise sequence especially created for those seeking an alternative fitness program.

Arnold says the fitness industry is developing new approaches to conditioning and exercise based on special populations' fitness needs and for those people who have sustained injuries through accidents, sports, high-impact aerobics and who need protective, stress-free exercise. "Easy Stretch" is available at the Earthfood Store, Andover Dance and Music Center and local bookstores and through mail order.

ADF was formed in 1980 to promote and educate the public about dance through cultural, educational and media programs. Arnold started developing private and corporate exercise services in 1987 and operates an in-house exercise program for employees at Digital Equipment Corp. For more information, contact ADF, 15 Nutmeg Lane.

Turkey

Massachusetts turkey growers are ready to provide the most fresh, tender and moist turkeys available to star in successful seasonal dinners.

Approximately 150,000 birds are raised annually in the state producing more than 3.2 million pounds of turkey, according to the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture.

Local turkeys are guaranteed fresh because they are raised longer. They develop a natural layer of fat underneath the skin, therefore eliminating the need for artificial basting and contributing to the taste and tenderness of the bird.

Nutritionally, turkey meat is lean in fat, especially saturated fat, compared to red meat. A three-ounce serving averages about 150 calories and is an excellent source of protein, niacin, vitamin B6 and zinc.

The Boston Globe Declares Our Cheese Danish "Superb"

"In our search-and-devour mission we looked for a danish pastry that had all the classic components. That means that the baker starts with a sweet dough which includes the pure ingredients of gluten flour, sugar, eggs, milk, into which he incorporates an extra portion of butter that makes it distinctly Danish pastry.

Eventually our research uncovered... in the 'burbs: La Patisserie... a superb walnut and cheese danish."

Workshops Address Arts Programs

The Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities will hold regional workshops this month to describe its community arts and education programs.

"We'd like to see students, teachers and diverse communities throughout the state benefiting from the wealth and expertise of our cultural institutions," stated Anne Hawley, executive director of the state agency. "These workshops will explain how to apply for state funding to bring a project to fruition."

Education programs at the council fund projects that combine the talents and resources of artists, cultural organizations and public school systems, Hawley said. Community arts programs support a variety of activities, from local cultural plans to folklife festivals. Because new deadlines are fast approaching, council staff will be available at the workshops to assist prospective applicants with the application process.

The deadlines for community arts and education programs are:

- Reduced Admissions, which allows organizations to offer performances to school children at reduced rates, Nov. 28

- Folklife and Ethnic Arts, which supports projects involving the state's diverse, traditional folk artists, Feb. 6, 1989

- Local arts, which supports cultural planning for communities, capacity-building programs for community arts groups and community residencies, Feb. 6.

- Heritage, which encourages the development and appreciation of the work of artists and communities of color, Feb. 27.

- Outreach, which allows organizations to reach new and underserved audiences with their programs, March 6.

- Curriculum Development, which supports collaborations between schools, community groups and cultural institutions to create arts, humanities and interpretive science curricula, March 6.

- Conferences, which encourages the exchange of ideas and strategies through conferences, March 6.

The councils' northeast workshop date is Nov. 14 at Lowell Heritage State Park from 10 a.m. to noon.

New Boutique Owners

Gardenia Boutique on Main Street has blossomed under the new proprietorship of Elizabeth and Kelly Greeley.

After taking over the store in July, the mother-daughter team began redecorating and ordering new merchandise, meeting their goal of opening on Oct. 31. Balloons loaded with discounts were given to customers making a purchase.

The seven-year-old boutique is noted for its contemporary clothing and one-of-a-kind original designs in sizes 2 to 18.

Along with friendly service, the new owners offer personalized shopping and complete alterations. The Greeleys will sponsor events such as free fashion shows twice a year at the Andover Country Club, private sales and gift certificate giveaways. Their first event, scheduled for Nov. 17 from 5 to 9 p.m. at the store will feature informal modeling, refreshments and many surprises.

The owners, residents of the Merrimack Valley, say they think their boutique will attract not only Andover clients, but customers from many other communities.

Museum Awarded Grants

The Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities recently awarded more than $53,000 in grants to the Museum of American Textile History.

A merit aid grant for $36,865 will be used for ongoing cultural programs and services in Massachusetts. The museum's application for the grant was reviewed by a panel of museum professionals who visited and met with each department head. The panel was chaired by Lee Kimche McGrath, director of the U.S. Department of State's art in embassies program.

An outreach grant for $16,145 will be used to continue the museum's "From Fiber to Fabric" program for fifth-grade students. This educational program includes a teacher training session for area teachers who then receive resource kits. Each class is visited by a museum interpreter during the class unit on industrialization, followed by the students' visit to the museum for hands-on activities and a tour of the industrial exhibit. The interpreter concludes the program with a slideshow on the history of child labor.

The museum was also awarded a 1988 conservation project support grant from the Institute of Museum Services.

The $4,626 grant will be used to hire a consulting conservator to conduct a survey of all collections and assist in the development of a long-range conservation plan. The museum will also purchase two hygrometers to improve monitoring of storage spaces and the library staff will re-house a manuscript collection in archival quality materials.

The museum is one of 219 recipients nationwide of the 1988 conservation project support grants totaling $2.9 million. There were 404 applicants for these competitive grants.

This year's program continues to address museum conservation needs for collection surveys and long-range plans. The program's framework encourages administrators to develop their museum's conservation plans from.

Grace Episcopal Church, corner of Jackson and Common streets in Lawrence, will present John Skelton in concert on Nov. 20 at 3 p.m. This will be the first public performance on the new console recently installed at the church. Built more than 100 years ago, this organ is considered to be one of the finest built in the American classic tradition. The organ was redesigned into a Baroque-style instrument about 50 years ago. The current effort by Grace Church, dedicated to the late former organist/choirmaster Fred E. Jones, seeks to restore the instrument to its designed beauty. The first stage is complete. A new console was installed and the beginning the redesign has taken place.

Skelton, director of music at the Maple Street Congregational Church in Danvers, is a member of the faculties of the University of New Hampshire and University of Lowell. He received his bachelor of music and master of music degrees from the New England Conservatory of Music. Skelton has studied with Donald Willing and Daniel Pinkham and, in Vienna, with the famed performer and teacher, Anton Heiller. He has performed at conventions of the American Guild of Organists and the Organ Historical Society and appeared in concert at the Methuen Memorial Music Hall.

Tickets for the the Grace Church concert, to benefit the Fred E. Jones Organ Fund, may be reserved by calling the church office or purchased at the door. A receipt will follow the concert in the parish hall.

A lightning bolt can generate more heat than the surface of the sun.

The ballpoint was invented by Hungarian hypnotist, sculptor and journalist Laszlo Biro. He constructed the prototype and applied for a patent in 1938.

Tickets Available For Nutcracker

The Department of Community Services is running a trip to the Boston Ballet's production of "The Nutcracker" at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts Thursday, Dec. 29, during school vacation week. This season's "Nutcracker" will feature new choreography, the music of Tchaikovsky and stunning sets and costumes. Last year, many people were disappointed as performances were sold out before they got tickets. Registration is limited. The bus will leave from the rear parking lot of the Town Offices Building at 12:45 p.m. and return by 5 p.m.

Founded by E. Virginia Williams in 1963 on the recommendation of George Balanchine, Boston Ballet is the fifth largest ballet company in the nation with 36 dancers and a repertory of more than 100 works. Under the leadership of Artistic Director Bruce Marks, the company has broken box office records in Boston and achieved internationally critical acclaim, highlighted by the world premiere of "Mort Subite" by Mark Morris, the most popular production of "The Nutcracker" in the world and the performance of the oldest existing version of "Coppelia" from the repertory of the Royal Danish Ballet. Boston Ballet was the first American ballet company to perform in the People's Republic of China in 1980. The company toured the world with Rudolf Nureyev dancing "Swan Lake" and "Don Quixote" in 1982. Recently the company opened the Pepsico Summerfare Festival in Purchase, N.Y. Boston Ballet is a classically based company with repertoire including large scale productions such as "Swan Lake," "Sleeping Beauty," "Giselle" and "Coppelia." The company is equally well versed in contemporary ballet with significant new works by Mark Morris, Elisa Monte, Jim Self, Kenneth Rinker and Susan Marshall.

Final Week For "Wiz"

The final two performances of the Andover Theatre Company's production of the "Wizard of Oz" will be held Nov. 11 and 12 at 8 p.m. at Memorial Hall Auditorium, Bartlet Street, Andover. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

The well-known musical tells the tale of Dorothy as she travels through the imaginary city of Oz with her dog, Toto, and a lion, a tin man and a scarecrow searching for a way to go home, courage, a brain and a heart. Dorothy meets Munchkins, winged monkeys and the legendary mayor of Oz as she matches wits with the Wicked Witch.

The cast includes actors from Amesbury, Andover, Bradford, Lawrence, Methuen, North Andover, North Reading, Reading and Derry, N.H.

The Andover Theatre Company operates in conjunction with Andover's Department of Community Services. The "Wizard of Oz" is the first production in its 17th year of providing the local area with quality, reasonably-priced entertainment.

Family Show Planned

The Wright Brothers

Pack 77 Visits Sub Base

Pack 77 Webelos Scouts of West Parish Church started their new year with a day trip to the New London Naval Submarine Base in Groton, Conn. Chief Petty Officer Michael O'Meara was the boys' personal tour director.

The scouts visited the outdoor and indoor submarine museum and went through the decommissioned USS Nautilus submarine. The boys experienced first hand how to pilot, communicate and launch missiles in a present-day nuclear submarine class

Kaleidoscope will present the Wright Brothers, known throughout New England for one of the best family shows around, as the first show in its annual performance series. The five-man team brings the zaniness, wit and incredible physical humor that won them first place in the 1987 International Mime and Clown Festival.

Dance, music, juggling, storytelling are some of the delightful elements of the show. A reviewer wrote: "The Wright Brothers are original, gentle and incredibly funny. This is a show for the entire family...It's like a vaudeville, it's like a circus, it's mime and it's absolutely enjoyable." People leave the theater asking, "How did they do that?"

The show will be presented in the auditorium of West Middle School, Shawsheen Road, Andover, on Saturday, Dec. 3, at 1 p.m. It is recommended for children ages three and up and their parents. Fliers are available in school offices and Memorial Hall Library.

Kaleidoscope, a non-profit enrichment program, offers this series in cooperation with the Andover Department of Community Services.

OBITUARIES

Idris William Jones

On Nov. 6, 1988, the Rev. Dr. Idris William Jones, 79, died at his home in Andover. He had been attended by Hospice, his wife of 54 years and his extended family during his struggle with cancer.

The son of a Welsh miner, Idris Jones was seriously injured at the age of 14 years when run over by a truck loaded with coal. After a year in a cast, he saw his recovery as the work of God. Feeling blessed, he dedicated his future to the church. As an American Baptist minister, teacher and counselor, Dr. Jones enriched countless lives.

He began his ministry in 1934 as pastor of the First Baptist Church in Wilson, N.Y., and in over 40 years of full-time ministry held pastorates in Columbia, Missouri, Buffalo, N.Y., Washington, D.C., Peoria, Ill., Royal Oak, Mich., and Rome, N.Y.

In Peoria and Royal Oak, the churches were led through major building campaigns. He held many state and nationwide positions for the American Baptist Churches, including that of first vice president of the national denomination. Dr. Jones was the author of three books and numerous articles. During the period after Peter Marshall's death in 1949, he was among those who served temporarily as chaplain of the United States Senate.

After officially retiring in 1974, he served as interim pastor in Greenfield, Holyoke, Pittsfield and North Adams, Mass., and Hudson, N.Y. Dr. Jones' ministry continued even through the final days of his life; it was not uncommon for visitors to comment that it was he who ministered to them.

Born in 1909 in Plymouth, Penn., the first of four children of Martha Ann and Thomas Evan Jones, his early education was in Wilkes-Barre, Penn. He received a B.A. from Bucknell University in 1931, a B.D. from Colgate Rochester Divinity School in 1934, an M.A. in history from the University of Missouri in 1941 and an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Shurtleff College in 1955. He was a 32nd degree Scottish rite Mason and a member of Kiwanis and Rotary.

He married Elizabeth Louise Norton Feb. 4, 1p35, in Rochester, N.Y. He is survived by his wife; four children, Miriam Jones Murdoch of Seneca Falls, N.Y., Robert I. Jones of New York City, Thomas O. Jones of Andover and Virginia L. Jones of Joliet, Ill.; six grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; sisters, Dr. Dilys M. Jones of Scotland, Penn., and Blodwen I. Jones of Quincy, Penn.; and brother, David Jones of Harrisburg, Penn.

Celebrations of Dr. Jones' life will be held at the Andover Baptist Church Saturday, Nov. 12, at 2 p.m. and at the First Baptist Church in Pittsfield Sunday, Nov. 13, at 2 p.m. The family requests that those not able to attend join them in prayer at that time. Contributions may be made to a memorial scholarship fund established in his name at the American Baptist Assembly, Green Lake, Wisc. 54941.

Arrangements are by Edgerley and Bessom Funeral Homes, 33 Pearson St., Andover.

McGovern Wins In Landslide Victor Says She Has Bond To Town Contest Closest In Hometown

By Julie M. Barry

Tuesday's election proved to be successful for Lawrence democrat Sen. Patricia McGovern, the overwhelming victor in the state senatorial race in the second Essex and Middlesex district.

In Andover, 56 percent of the voters cast ballots for McGovern and 43 percent for William Melahn.

McGovern was victorious in all of Andover's precincts. The closest contest was in Melahn's precinct — eight — with a final vote of 894 for McGovern and 830 for Melahn.

In regards to her triumph in Andover, McGovern said "I'm very glad...you just never know what the results may be — it was his (Melahn's) hometown."

But, McGovern, a Lawrence resident, says she, too, has ties to Andover because her family originally came from West Andover. "I feel a very special bond to the town," she said.

McGovern captured 39,553 votes in the district — Andover, Billerica, Lawrence and Tewksbury.

Melahn, the Republican candidate and McGovern's first opponent in the general election since she made it to office in 1980, received 18,487 votes.

At her election party Tuesday night at Bishop's Restaurant, Lawrence, McGovern thanked everyone who helped with her campaign and who voted for her. "I'm delighted by the victory," she said.

And, she congratulated Melahn for running a good campaign. McGovern's campaign manager, Mary Beth Heffernan, agreed. "I was pleased that the campaign stuck to the issues," Heffernan said. "We worked very hard and we're pleased with the enthusiasm."

In her victory speech, McGovern said "government is about commitment, taking risks and moving forward." She referred to the universal health care bill and the approval of the Emerson College project in Lawrence as positive steps toward the future.

Along those same lines, McGovern said she was grateful that Gov. Michael Dukakis took the risk and ran for president of the United States. "He gave us a terrific ride," she said to a crowd of avid Democratic supporters at Bishops.

Now that she's been re-elected, McGovern, chairwoman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, said the next few months will be spent concentrating on the state budget and the bonding issue.

By Frank Messina

Like many first-time candidates across the country whose longshot dreams were dashed by an incumbent landslide, Andover resident William Melahn tasted defeat in the Second Essex District State Senate race Tuesday night.

Then shrugged it off and went back to work at his North Andover law office the next morning.

"I've got no choice in the matter," shrugged Melahn. "This is reality."

The realities of analyzing defeat the morning after were a bit more difficult, but Melahn, who gained a reputation during the campaign for his colorful phraseology, was equal to the task.

Money, he said, was a major problem. "We were really hung out for dough the last couple of weeks," said Melahn, whose campaign had raised $35,000 by Oct. 18. "It really hampered our advertising and other things we had to do. We basically just popped our cork."

Nevertheless confident going into the final days before the election, Melahn said Gov. Michael Dukakis' heavy last-minute presidential campaigning had a coattail effect that contributed to incumbent Rep. Pat McGovern's landslide victory.

"I think we were caught in the backwater of Dukakis," he said.

The lack of media attention in a race involving a heavily-favored incumbent also bothered Melahn.

"There was a perception (among the media) that there was a powerful incumbent here, so why bother?" covering the race, said Melahn. The campaign also suffered from lack of print coverage, particularly in regards to his press releases hammering McGovern on tax and budget issues, he said.

Otherwise, the results are "A puzzle to me," said Melahn. "I still feel that this is a conservative district. Maybe we didn't set all our ideas out, I don't know."

But Melahn stressed that he is definitely not bitter over the results.

The first-time candidate said he gained name recognition that would be helpful in any future political candidacy. However, Melahn indicated it was too soon to decide whether he will run for office again.

"I don't have enough information yet. It's a bad time to make a decision," he said.

Reflecting back on months of campaigning, Melahn said he would remember the "unnerving" experience of approaching people at supermarkets and going door-to-door.

"I think I have squatters rights on one particular curb outside one donut shop in Tewksbury," he chuckled. "I met a lot of nice people in this campaign."

"I don't have one ounce of regret."

Selectmen Re-appoint ZBA Incumbents

After a considerable amount of discussion over past weeks concerning infusion of new blood into the Zoning Board of Appeals, town selectmen decided to re-appoint all three incumbent ZBA members Monday night.

Selectmen voted to give ZBA Chairman Wesley Whitney and associate members Paul Bevacqua and Wallace Bolton new, three year terms on the board.

Terms for all three had expired in June, but the board, wanting to gauge community interest in ZBA service, delayed interviews for the positions.

Although the selectmen were very impressed over the quality of those applying, one applicant had previously served as Methuen ZBA chairman, the board gave a vote of confidence to the incumbents.

Bolton, appointed for his second term, was appreciative.

"I kind of feel that it was a compliment," said Bolton. "I think the Selectmen handled (the reappointments) fairly and even if I had been replaced, I would've considered (ZBA membership) a good experience."

Bolton said he decided to re-apply because ZBA work "needs to be done" and personally, his work on the board has been a beneficial learning experience.

He singled out the board's work on comprehensive permits as the issue with the most impact in town over the past year.

Two Youths Arrested At Drinking Party

Two juveniles were arrested on disorderly conduct charges last week as Andover police broke up a large teenage drinking party in Indian Ridge Oct. 28.

Police said as many as 150 youths, many of whom scattered when patrol cars approached, were at the Friday night party.

OPINION

On Public Buildings

While the need for a teen center remains under discussion and remains a possibility, it would seem somewhat appropriate to check on municipal priorities.

The renovation of town hall and its conversion to use by possibly the post office and some public groups remains prominent in the consideration of the building's future use.

But, as of the moment, dedication of some of the space available will not be to a teen center, the feeling that the total square footage which will become available will be insufficient.

Under consideration is the possibility of acquiring the post office building on Main street when that facility moves to its new location on Stevens Street.

Frankly, it does not seem that the town needs acquisition of another building to accommodate further public services.

No municipality should be in the real estate holding business is the primary thought dealing with the acquisition of the old post office.

Andover currently has millions of dollars invested in property throughout the town, such as schools, water treatment plant, fire and police stations, library and town hall.

To add to those holdings, just to provide facilities for a teen center seems absurd.

No doubt other public groups would have access to the facility, but think of the need for funds to renovate the building and to make it accessible for the handicapped. All of these financial considerations should be considered before thinking seriously about taking over the post office building, which doubtless would be quickly snapped up by developers for either retail or professional office space. The latter would seem a more adaptable use for the property, given its location within the business district.

And, while teens desirous of having facilities available to them may object to the idea of using the schools for their activities, where better to conduct them.

The town has spent millions to provide these buildings which are left idle for considerable time after the daily educational processes are completed.

There isn't that much wrong with returning to these structures in the evening hours for recreational or other pursuits. They are available public buildings.

Better to utilize what is available, than expend additional municipal funds and further strap the taxpayers for more public real estate.

Just A Thought

By Bob Finneran

Finally have found toll takers worse than those who line the Massachusetts Turnpike from Weston to Pittsfield.

These knights of the kiosks obtain their jobs, presumably, by agreeing never to speak to the travelling public, nor to say thank you or anything like that and to steadfastly uphold the theory that to talk civilly to a motorist who might be seeking directions is a definite violation of toll-takers ethics.

Was pretty well convinced that these Bay State 'revenooers' were about the worst in the country as far as courtesy is concerned until we hit New Jersey a couple of weeks ago.

Those people assigned to calculate the dues for passing over the New Jersey Turnpike can match up to the Bay Staters and maybe even surpass them in terms of courtesy and helpfulness.

Actually the automatic toll booths on the Garden State Parkway have more personality.

Having traversed some distance on the Jersey Pike, I came to the desired exit and eased up to the toll booth.

Handed the card to the guy in the booth and, on close inspection, determined that should he break into a smile there would be a need for some Sakrete concrete mix to repair the cracks.

Informed of the fee for the privilege of getting out of Jersey, I fished in my pocket for change, not realizing that among the coins was a Canadian quarter.

"Gimmee an American quarter," old Phil Pleasantness bellowed.

Trying to humor him, feeling maybe he had been having a tough time or something, I responded, "Pardonez moi?"

He pulled himself off the stool upon which he was perched, picked up an American quarter and showed it to me, indicating I'd better produce its similarity or else.

So there was an exchange of foreign policy and was permitted to continue on.

Such is the power of these people, who, granted authority, have the world at bay for anything from a quarter on up.

Today's election process is a far cry from the old days.

Remember when on election night we sat around the news room exchanging results with other newspapers to determine winners in county and regional races. Now, of course, the good old computer brings in the outcome in a much easier fashion.

Similarly, the public at large listened and watched for long hours awaiting the outcome of the various contests.

Now, the results are passed along as soon as the polls close.

This year, it seems, it took longer to cast a ballot in some places than it did to find out who was the winner.

Such is progress, I guess.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 Years Ago — November 1888

In spite of the doubtful prospect of the morning and the occasional clouds during the day, Tuesday was in this vicinity a favorable day for the Presidential election. The polls were open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The total number of names on the voting list was 1039.

John H. Flint has sold two lots of the Hazen estate fronting on Main Street.

John W. Bell received the returns of the election up to midnight, Tuesday. Through the kindness of Joseph W. Smith, Esq. the hall was open for all. And between the reports, Mr. Smith kept those present in the best of humor.

Geo. A. Abbott, son of Mr. James A. Abbott, who lives in Bangor, Maine, was in Andover on Monday on a flying trip to his father, his first visit to Andover for nearly seven years.

Mr. William Raynor, who was injured four weeks ago by being thrown from his wagon, died last Friday.

The Andover vote on Tuesday, as compared with the presidential vote in 1884 is thus figured out by parties interested: Republican gain, 26 percent; Democratic gain, 45 percent.

50 Years Ago — November 1938

Joy for the Republican party and grief for the board of selectmen was the result of Andover's heavy 88.8 percent vote on Tuesday. Right down through the ticket the town went Republican, but on the license question there was an unusual division that means plenty of trouble for the selectmen as liquor licensing authorities.

The annual Punchard-Methuen game will be played here tomorrow afternoon, Armistice Day. This game is usually the most interesting of the season because of the keen rivalry between the two grid teams which at present seem to be well-matched.

THE PUBLIC FORUM

Town Hall Recommendations

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

The Andover Historical Society has spent considerable time over the past three years discussing possible uses for the old Town Hall, even bringing in several consultants to help conduct a marketing analysis of best-use alternatives.

During the past summer we met with representatives from the North Andover Historical Society (NAHS), Stevens-Coolidge Place, Andover Village Improvement Society (AVIS), Addison Gallery of American Art, Peabody Foundation, Museum of American Textile History (MATH), Immigrant City Archives and Andover Chamber of Commerce. All these organizations are extremely interested in contributing materials to a cultural/visitors center but no one organization, the Andover Historical Society included, feels they could take on the administrative responsibilities of such a project. Their reasons being the following:

1. They all feel that they could not allocate the time needed from their staff and volunteers to do the project properly.
2. Monies to expand beyond their existing projects are not available.
3. Volunteer organizations have a very difficult, if not impossible, task filling part-time let alone full-time staffing commitments.

The society has long been interested and concerned about the old Town Hall and has worked very hard to educate the community regarding its importance to the town and supported its restoration and reuse strongly on the town meeting floor.

On behalf of the Andover Historical Society, the board of directors recommends appointing a town-supported project manager to establish and oversee a cultural/visitors center in the old Town Hall. This would make it possible for any number of worthy organizations (environmental, social, cultural, etc.) to set up exhibits, present slide shows and performances, organize walking tours and so forth, rather than allowing just one organization to monopolize a prime location in downtown

Andover. The following organizations have already expressed a desire to make available information and materials for a cultural/visitors center: AHS, NAHS, Stevens-Coolidge Place, AVIS, Addison Gallery, Peabody Foundation, MATH, Immigrant City Archives and Andover Chamber of Commerce. These and other groups, for instance, might each be responsible for a one-month program, bringing a great deal of information to the community while not putting an undue strain on any one organization.

A representative from the society attended the Selectmen's Oct. 24 meeting to answer any questions that arose regarding the above proposal. The society's board is committed to do what is necessary to support the old Town Hall.

Clarification

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

On behalf of the tot lot committee, we appreciate your recent editorial supporting the concept of active community use of the renovated old Town Hall, including the sharing of space by teenagers, senior citizens and preschoolers.

We wish to take this opportunity, however, to clarify our proposed plan for use of a portion of the first floor of this building as an indoor tot play space. Rather than being a child day care center, we are suggesting that space be allocated for a tot play area. An indoor tot lot would essentially be an indoor playground for preschoolers (age birth to six years old). Ideally, if space permits, this play space would combine equipment for active physical play with equipment for imaginative and creative play. This might, for example, include indoor gym equipment intended for children of this age group as well as quiet areas for preschoolers to play at store, housekeeping, space center and the like. A separate infant corner might also be developed.

As with outdoor playgrounds, parents would be responsible for supervising their children at all times and for generally maintaining the condition of the room.

The primary goal of such a tot lot would be to provide a safe and exciting environment for our approximately 2,500 preschoolers in Andover to enable these children, many of whom are not in any formal school-type program, to play with other children their own age and also to provide a supportive and interactive setting for parents. Our committee believes strongly that an indoor tot lot would be a major benefit to Andover and would significantly contribute towards improving the quality of life of many of our residents.

A Helping Hand

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

I and the Andover West residents who have expressed consternation with the non-utility of the Route 93 overpass bridge at Chandler Road should and must be most grateful to Rep. Susan Tucker who has been almost singly instrumental in resolving the bridge dilemma.

Ms. Tucker has successfully motivated and activated the "powers that be" to act as reasonably and seasonably as possible and this has resulted in the much needed return to utility of our long idled bridge.

This overbridge is most necessary for fire, police and school bus access and egress. West Andover is basically and geographically a highway-isolated island at its eastern perimeters and without one of the bridges, many burdens unduly present themselves.

My neighbors and I want to express our sincere thanks to our most fine and special representative for her due care response to our needs.

Old Town Hall

moves to a new building.

Last spring, Town Meeting voters decided to let town hall retain rights to buy the property. Currently, federal and state authorities have first purchase options, although neither have shown much interest in the past.

Some renovation would be needed to convert the old post office to a handicapped-accessible recreational facility.

Mahony and other town officials support opening a post office in the building to supplant the downtown post office.

"That's been our goal," said Mahony. "It will add to downtown to have postal facilities there."

Nearby residents and downtown business concerns need to have postal resources nearby, said Mahony. Also, the rent revenue received from postal services would pay for the cost of utilities for the whole building, he added.

If the postal service opens an office in the Old Town Hall, Mahony favors opening a visitor's center in the remaining space, an idea also supported by the Planning Board.

Planners pointed out that with the municipal town hall buried a long block off Main Street, the Old Town Hall is a natural focal point for visitors and tourists. In addition to a town information center, Old Town Hall could also serve as exhibit space for Andover art.

Although teens argue otherwise, Mahony and others have suggested the permanent home for a teen center should be at a school.

It's a "logical place," said Mahony. "The time when a teen center is being used is when the school isn't being used."

Teen Center Committee members say students aren't happy with the idea of going back to school as a social center after spending all day at class in the same building.

Many of the long-range solutions, said

Mahony, should be contained in the capital budgeting process. Instead of looking to renovate an old building, the answer might be, create a facility specifically for teens and seniors, he said.

"If we're going to do it, let's do it right," said Mahony. "Let's build one, use professional staff and accept the fact there will be times when it won't be used (winter months) and there will be some age groups that don't use it."

With renovation of the Old Town Hall top floor as public meeting rooms is completed, some needs for daytime space will be filled, said Mahony.

The town manager also said municipal buildings being planned for the near future, such as a new fire station, will include community rooms.

Two juvenile males were fighting on the front lawn of the Algonquin Street home as police responded to a call from neighbors at 10:51 p.m. When the two youths refused to cease hostilities, patrolmen took them into custody.

Five Andover police were at the scene. While two handled the fight, the others entered the home where they found large amounts of alcohol on the premises.

Several youths under the drinking age were discovered hiding in closets, under beds and in the attic. None were in possession of alcohol so no further arrests were made, said a police spokesman.

The spokesman confirmed reports that a 16-year-old girl, her parents away for the weekend, was left in charge of the household.

The party had started out as a small gathering of friends that got out of control as word spread among local teenagers, said police.

Construction

Construction is also taking place on River Road. Work there has led to that road's closure from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. between 71 River Road and North Street.

Caliacco Corp. is installing a sanitary sewer for the Brookside Estates project. And construction, which began about three weeks ago, should be completed by Dec. 1, said project supervisor Marc Ciampa.

Detour signs have been posted and police officers are on duty to direct traffic when the road is closed.

Traffic flow has decreased this past week, said Ciampa, because motorists are seeking alternate routes.

A large oak tree can give off almost 30,000 gallons of moisture a year.

SPORTING LIFE

Good News, Bad News On Soccer Front

By Rick Harrison

There was good news and bad news to report as the 1988 fall season reached the critical stage for the Andover High boys' soccer, girls' soccer and volleyball teams last week.

All the good news came on the female front, the volleyball team's clutch 2-1 victory over Billerica qualifying it for the Eastern Mass. North Sectional Tournament and the soccer squad opening defense of its state Division 1 co-championship with a 3-0 whitewash of Framingham North.

The boys' soccer team saw its season abruptly halted, however, when Medford edged the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division co-champs 5-4 in the sixth overtime period.

Both the girls' soccer and volleyball teams returned to action this past Tuesday.

The booters were slated to battle Winchester (17-1-1) at Lovely Field in an Eastern Mass. Division 1 North semifinal round contest, while the netters faced Greater-Lowell Regional in the first round of the volleyball tourney.

Girls' Soccer

The Lady Warriors improved to 17-0-2 this year, stretched their two-season undefeated streak through 29 games (25-0-4), and registered their 17th shut-out of the season at Framingham North's expense.

Sophomore striker Anne Murnane opened the scoring for the second-seeded Merrimack Valley Conference champs, pocketing her sixth goal unassisted at the 20-minute mark of the first half.

Junior striker Suzanne Gianelly deposited her 10th goal eight minutes later, assist to Kathy Doran.

Sophomore striker Jen Butt contributed her 11th goal midway through the second half, set-up to junior halfback Jodi Saunders.

Junior Nicole Ricci played the first 65 minutes of the game in the Andover net, making nine saves, and junior Andrea Georgian finished up with one stop in 15 minutes.

Junior stopperback Lisa Berberian keyed the AHS defense by neutralizing Framingham North star player Karen Stauffer (25 goals).

Other defensive leaders were senior fullback Mina Sheel and junior fullback Brenna Cronin, while junior striker Erin Lynch and versatile Co-Capt. Kerry Fitzpatrick also played outstanding all-around games.

"I told Jen Butt and Anne Murnane at the beginning of the season I didn't care if they weren't scoring goals early in the year," said Warriors' coach Dick Loschi. "As long as they were getting 'em at the end. They've been two of our hottest offensive players the past few weeks."

"We started off slowly in the game. It was evident we were rusty from the nine-day layoff," said Loschi. "But after we got our feet wet at started moving, we took the game away from Framingham."

"We beat them to the ball consistently, were the more aggressive team, and forced them to make mistakes."

"It's apparent to me our girls are interested in repeating (state champs). They even came off the field in this game saying 'they (Framingham) don't want it as much as we do,'" concluded Loschi.

Andover and Winchester were not strangers to one another when they met Tuesday night. Last year they squared off both in the regular season and tournament, with the Lady Warriors prevailing 1-0 in a seventh overtime shootout at the same exact stage of the tourney.

Volleyball

Andover qualified for the tournament for the first time in its volleyball history, and did it with a tough win over a traditional power on the final day of regular season play.

The 2-1 triumph over Billerica halted a three-match losing streak for AHS, setting their record at 11-7 as they tied Billerica for second place in the MVC Large School Division.

Andover, which swept the season series with Billerica, won the first game 15-10, lost the second 7-15, and captured the rubber, 15-6.

"The kids played really well," said coach George Sullivan. "I believe we carried the momentum from the Chelmsford match, where we also played well but lost (2-1)."

"We made some defensive changes, taking a different approach and positioning some people differently. I was extremely pleased with the results."

"I'm a little concerned with our play in second games recently. We seem to win the first game, then slide down because everyone is looking at the clock and the score all the time," noted Sullivan.

"It's something like trying to stall for the last few minutes of a basketball game. It's much better to just go out and play."

Kristen Sullivan and Cate Doherty scored seven points apiece on their serves in the first and third games respectively, while Sullivan also contributed a strong defensive effort.

Laura Hebeisen and Doherty helped take some of the pressure off Julie Salazar, who played her usual outstanding all-around match.

"We had the type of balance we need against Billerica," said Sullivan. "Also playing excellent defense for Andover were Grace Park and Allison Wright."

If Andover defeated Greater-Lowell Regional on Tuesday it now has the dubious distinction of facing Division 1 top-seed Stoneham High tonight in Stoneham.

"We had five MVC teams qualify for the tournament, and Haverhill just missed being the sixth when Methuen beat them the last day," said Sullivan. "I think that's a very good indication of the strength of our league."

Boys' Soccer

Fourth-seeded Andover and fifth-seeded Medford staged a classic battle under the stars, struggling through 116 minutes tied 1-1 before settling the issue on penalty shots.

The rivals were knotted 1-1 after the regulation 80 minutes, both scoring in the first half, and then neither could produce the winning goal through a pair of regular six-minute overtimes and four six-minute sudden-death sessions.

Greater-Boston League power Medford netted the game's first goal, but Chris Merrill tied it for Andover a short time later with an assist to Scott Clementi.

The format for the decisive "shootout" calls for each team to designate five players who alternate penalty shots. Each takes one shot, and if the teams are still tied they then alternate shots until one team scores and the other does not.

Andover actually jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the shootout when Capt. Peter Kannam, Matt Pothier and Bob Hughes all scored on their penalty shots, and the first two Medford players missed.

But the Mustangs roared back to connect on their next three, while Andover missed twice, tying it 3-3 after the first 10 shots.

On the sixth shot Andover missed and Medford hit, clinched the quarterfinal round marathon for the Mustangs.

Eric Hammond made 12 saves for Andover, which outshot Medford 19-13 in regulation.

Andover lost three players and worked at a disadvantage for the entire second half and all the overtimes.

Top goalscorer Clementi was lost at the beginning of the second half, and the Golden Warriors had to play the rest of the way one man down (11-on-10).

In addition center-fullback Kevin

Murphy suffered a thigh bruise in the first half, while wing-fullback Jim Spinelli sustained a contusion on the shin. Both those regular defenders were lost for the balance of the contest.

"As a team we played well, especially considering the (adverse) conditions with the injuries," said coach Dave Amundsen. "Even though we played short one man in the second half and overtimes, we had more

Pike Girls' Soccer Undeclared

The girls' varsity soccer team at the Pike School has finished its fall schedule with a season record of 8-0-1. Four eighth-graders from Andover served as captains: Angela Chongris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Chongris of Wescott Street;

Amy DiAdamo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine DiAdamo of Salem Street; Laurie Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moss of Phillips Academy; and Nicole Poisson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Poisson of Russet Lane.

The girls' junior varsity soccer team ended the season with a 2-2-1 record.

The boys' varsity soccer team had an 8-3 record and the junior varsity, a 7-3 record.

Boys' third-string soccer finished the season with a record of two wins and four losses.

The interscholastic sports program begins in sixth grade and students compete with teams from other independent schools.

The first Pasadena Tournament of Roses Parade was held Jan. 1, 1890.

Warrior Gridders Savor Victory

By Rick Harrison

This was a victory to savor. Many long-lasting images emerged, exciting clips to insert in the season-ending highlight film if there is such a thing.

The sight of quarterback Kurt Brucato lofting a perfect spiral through the rain to athletic receiver John Thompson, who caught the ball in stride with arms fully extended and outran Tivo Concepcion to the endzone to complete an electrifying 86-yard fourth quarter Flutie-to-Fryar touchdown play.

The sight of 230-pound middle guard Stefan Kelly intercepting a pass at midfield, then following a Jack Dalton block down the right sideline to the Lawrence 11 yard line before the Lancers' Charlie Guido and Bill Misserville finally wrestled "Hefty" to the turf.

The sight (and sound) of Tom Benanchietti lowering the boom on Concepcion with a thundering hit on the kickoff return following Andover's second touchdown.

The sight of middle linebacker Paul DeMarco all over the field, creating havoc with the Lawrence offense while participating in 19 tackles (five unassisted).

And the sight of virtually the entire team at midfield after the game, hamming it up for a local radio announcer who awarded Brucato and "MVP of the Game" trophy.

The Golden Warriors returned to the .500 mark last Saturday with their second 21-0 shutout victory in three weeks, riding the golden arm of Mr. Brucato, the sharp eyes and concentration of receivers Thompson and Dalton, and a community defensive effort led by DeMarco to the rain-soaked triumph over Lawrence at partially-condemned Veterans Stadium.

Andover improved to 3-3-1 overall, and now faces the rugged homestretch with games at Tewksbury (5-2-1 record) this Saturday, at North Andover (5-2-0) on Nov. 19, and home against traditional rival Central Catholic (5-3-0) Thanksgiving morning (10 a.m. kickoff).

For the third week in succession the 5-10, 155-pound Brucato was immense, completing 12-of-21 passes for 206 yards and three touchdowns.

Thompson, who caught four passes covering 147 yards, scored twice on the 86-yard bomb and a 33-yard "heft" in the first half.

Dalton, who added five receptions for 51 yards, sandwiched a four-yard TD grab around "J.T.'s" pair.

Brucato, the early-season understudy to Steve Surette who dressed Saturday but remains sidelined with a deep thigh bruise and knee injury, has now completed 43-of-72 passes (60 per cent) for 616 yards and seven touchdowns.

Projected over an entire season, those figures would read 143-for-240, a whopping 2,053 yards and 24 touchdowns.

Thompson and Dalton now have four TD catches and 24 points apiece this fall.

Even the running game showed some spark, with bursts by Chris McAnally and Dave Tucker taking some pressure off the aerial show.

DeMarco backboned the shutout defense which also featured grade-A performances by Kelly, Benanchietti, Dalton, Andy Arnott, 232-pound Dan Ferris, Barry Finegold, Chris Adams, Dave Blank, Brett Hammond, Pete Reming, Joe Iarrobino and Curt "Crusher" Soloman.

Although the Golden Warriors' Dick Collins-designed run-and-shoot offense dictates that the quarterback rollout and throw on the run constantly, there was excellent blocking up front by offensive linemen Joe Marinaro, Erik Greenstein, Stefan Fodor, Kelly, Benanchietti and Arnott.

Quick Lead

The AHS defense, with DeMarco, Adams, Arnott and Dalton making key stops, muted the Lawrence offense on its first series.

The Golden Warriors, profiting from a short 16-yard Concepcion punt into the whipping wind, moved 52 yards in 10 plays for their first touchdown on their initial possession.

The drive actually covered 65 yards after a first-down pass from Brucato to Pat Duffy lost 13.

Duffy and Brucato quickly atoned with an eight-yard completion, and a personal foul penalty against the Lancers tacked on 15 yards.

An important 11-yard pass to Dalton on third-and-8 kept things moving, and the payoff came on a 33-yarder to Thompson with Brucato staring fourth-and-14 squarely in the face.

The reception came down to a matter of timing between Thompson and Lawrence defender Shawn Quaglietta. Both had an equal shot at the ball, but basketball standout Thompson reached over and plucked the pigskin away at the 10 yard line. He then coasted to the endzone untouched.

Andy Weiner drilled the first of three perfect conversions, his eighth, ninth and 10th of the season, for a 7-0 Warriors edge at 7:46 of the first period.

Warrior

The Lancers used up approximately six minutes on another fruitless excursion, although the omnipresent Concepcion almost broke a long one on the kickoff before Weiner himself made the tackle.

The running of Charlie Guido advanced the Lancers all the way to the Andover eight, but on second down a pass by Lawrence QB Bill Bryant was picked off at the goalline by sophomore cornerback Dave Blank.

Blank cut in front of intended receiver Steve Levesque and returned the ball to the Andover nine yard line.

Runs by McAnally and Tucker, plus 14- and 10-yard passes to Dalton and a 20-yarder to Thompson, backtracked the ball to the Lawrence 21 before offensive pass interference and illegal motion penalties blunted the drive.

Brucato and Concepcion exchanged punts, Brucato's a low 32-yard liner into the wind, and the Warriors threatened a final time just before the half.

Passes to Dalton (12 yards), Brett Hammond (12 yards) and Thompson (eight yards) moved the ball to the Lancers' 16, but an eventual fourth-down pass was intercepted by Concepcion at the three and returned to the Lawrence 45.

A personal foul penalty against the Warriors brought the ball to the AHS 40, and the half ended with a 21-yard toss from Bryant to Concepcion at the Andover 19.

Kelly Provides Spark

The opening minutes of the third quarter were uneventful, except for an Ed Anton interception of a Brucato pass near midfield.

A short time later Stefan Kelly returned the favor, pulling down a Bryant pass at the Andover 48 and looking much like a ballet dancer on his 41 yard return.

Dave Tucker smashed five yards up the middle to the Lawrence six, Brucato tacked on two more with a keeper, and then Kurt rolled right and spotted Dalton in the front corner of the endzone for the touchdown.

Kelly snapped, Iarrobino held and Weiner kicked to make it 14-0 at the 7:10 mark.

As the fourth quarter arrived, so did the rain, Benanchiatti's monstrous hit on Concepcion, and a sustained march by Lawrence from its own 33 to the Andover five yard line.

Bryant completed passes to Concepcion (28 and seven yards) and Levesque (eight and seven yards), while Guido and Levesque handled the legwork during the drive.

The Lancers' final bid ended with a Paul DeMarco interception at the Warriors' 12 yard line.

Tucker picked up two yards, setting the stage for Flutie-to-Fryar II as Brucato unleashed his playground bomb to Thompson.

J.T., going as far as he could as fast as he could before the catch, made one small cut to the left and gave a quick look over the left shoulder at Concepcion as he crossed the 10-yard stripe.

Weiner's kick made it 21-0 with less than five minutes to play.

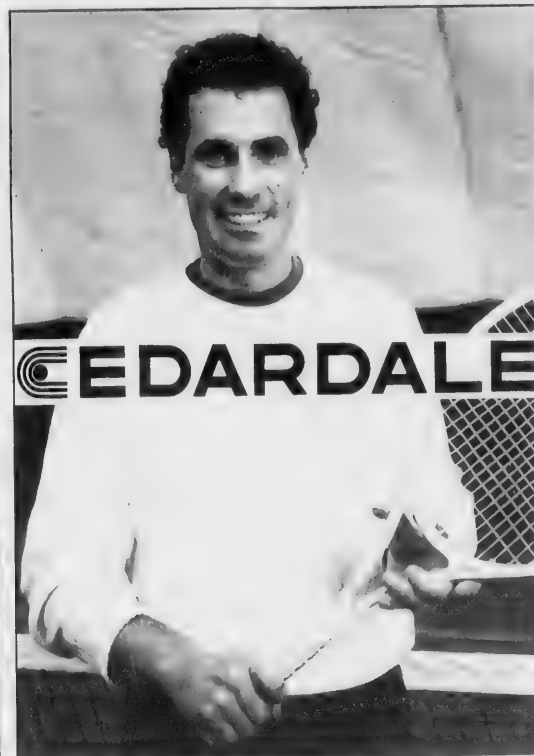

Junior Pat Finn came in to quarterback for the Warriors, and Curt Solomon made several solid defensive plays to highlight the monsoon-like closing minutes.

Stats

The first downs were even, 12-12, but Andover managed advantages in yards passing (206-102), total yardage from scrimmage (261-190) and scrimmage plays (51-50).

Dave Tucker finished with 29 yards in six carries and McAnally with 22 in five lugs.

Dolphins Perfect On Season

The Bancroft Dolphins finished off their championship season with a 31-7 win over the West Andover Redskins. The Dolphins were undefeated posting a perfect 6-0 record in Junior Football league play.

In the other contest, Coach John O'Connor's Central Colts scored the first touchdown, but it wasn't enough as the Indian Ridge Raiders scored four times for a 28-6 victory.

Dolphin touchdown scorers were John Shea (2), Scott Henry (2) and Dave Kelmer. Shea's two scores were on pass plays, one from Scott Henry good for 35 yards and a 10 yarder from QB Todd Harris. The Harris to Shea combination also clicked for an extra point. Scott Henry's two TD's were on runs of 30 and 20 yards and Dave Kelmer also scored on a 30 yard jaunt. Also playing well on offense were Pete Daniels and Justin Connors. The stingy Dolphin defense was led by the play of Brendan Finneran, Matt Wolcott, Kurt Stockwood, Mike Yoder, Chris Corcoran and Chris Silvestro.

The Redskin touchdown was scored by Tallis Siderbotham on a nifty 15 yard scamper and a Mike Trombly to Tim Campbell pass was good for the extra point. Other 'Skins playing well offensively were Steve Marchik, Adam Gray and Frank Schaffer. The defense was led by the play of Mark Maesano, Adam Goddess, Michael Collings and Eric Larochelle.

The lone Central Colt touchdown was scored by Gene Doran on a well executed 50 yard pass play from QB Jeff Bremmer. Other colts turning in fine offensive performances were Brendon O'Donahue, Sean O'Leary, Patirck Harding, Andy Novelline, Brian Landry, Tom Froberg, George Vinal, Matt Avery and Scott Robb. On defense the Colts were led by the play of Steve Hosmer, Bobby McKertick, Brian Haugh, Greg Litchfield and Sean Piantedosi.

Touchdown scorers for the Raiders were Rob Wyatt (2), one a 40 yard run and the other a short run up the middle, Bob Ellis on a 30 yard reverse and Rodney Lumley on a sweep. Extra points were registered by Rob Wyatt, Justin Pierce and Chris O'Connell on passes and Ritchie Meyers via the ground route. Other offensive contributors for the Raiders were Robert Derba, Brian Adams, Matt Landry, Sam McLellan and James Perry. On defense the standouts were Jason Benedict, Jon Paul Ciruso, Justin Rosenblatt, David Godwin, Greg Bennett, Mike Shaugnessy and John Shaugnessy who blocked a point.

The League's Annual Awards Banquet will be held Wednesday, Nov. 16 at 6:30 p.m. at the Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational Technical School on River Road. Tickets are still available at Red Harris Sporting Goods on Main Street.

Guido led all rushers with 57 yards in 15 carries, 56 of those yards in the first half.

Brucato punted twice for a 26.0 average under adverse conditions, and the Golden Warriors picked up 60 yards in penalties on five infractions.

Tewksbury

Brucato may meet his equal this week in Tewksbury's Dave Boudreau. Boudreau has already thrown for just over 1,500 yards and nine touchdowns this season, completing 61 per cent of his passes.

His favorite receivers are Tom Bradley, who needs just four receptions to set a new single-season record at TMHS, and Sean Mackey.

The offensive backfield is now populated by underclassmen, thanks to injuries to standout runners Tom Aylward and Craig Horgan. They may both return this Saturday, but if not sophomore Tim Lightfoot will be one to watch.

The game is set for Doucette Field in Tewksbury, located at the Center School on Pleasant Street.

Frosh Gridders Face Fist Loss

By Rick Harrison

The Andover freshman football team suffered its first defeat two weeks ago at the hands of Lowell, 30-22, but bounced back last Friday with a solid 22-0 shutout blitz of Lawrence to improve to 5-1-0 overall this fall.

Lowell scored with approximately three minutes to play, breaking the game's third tie, and then Andover had a pass intercepted at the 10 yard line with 50 seconds left, as the Golden Warriors dropped the wild decision at Lowell's Cawley Stadium.

The 22-0 romp at the Doherty Middle School field was sparked by Jim Landry, who scored two touchdowns, and a rock-ribbed defensive effort led by X-men Dan Feeley and Kevin Ring, noseguard Adam Ferry, tackles John Whilen and Garrett Ferris, cornerback Matt Harris and Landry.

Dan Feeley and Jim Landry continue to lead Andover's scoring parade, Feeley with 46 points and Landry with 44.

The Andover freshmen have two games remaining, the first of which takes place tomorrow morning (10 a.m.) at Doherty against the visiting Tewksbury frosh.

The finale will be against Central Catholic at Veterans Stadium on Nov. 18.

Lowell, 30-22

The Lowell game was wide open from beginning to end, Andover finishing with 408 yards total offense and Lowell (4-2-0) piling up close to 500 yards.

The Warriors collected 119 yards rushing, 183 yards passing and 106 return yards.

It was tied 14-14 at halftime, Lowell led 22-14 after three, and Andover pulled even 22-22 early in the fourth quarter to set up the hectic final three minutes.

"It was one of those games where it looked like the last team with the football would win," said Andover assistant coach Ken Pellerin. "We've never had a team push the ball up and down the field against us like that for four quarters."

"Lowell just fired off the ball, ran the isolation and picked up five yards a crack out of the power-I. Nothing fancy about it, but we couldn't stop them."

There wasn't a punt by either team in the game.

Dan Feeley notched the first Andover touchdown on a 20-yard pass from quarterback Matt Daniels, and Feeley rushed the two-point conversion for a brief 8-6 Andover edge in the opening period.

Jason McCue and Kevin Murphy hooked up on a 65-yard pass-and-run touchdown play in the second quarter.

McCue notched the final Andover touchdown on a three-yard run, and once again Feeley rushed the conversion.

Andover was driving for the potential game-tying TD at the end, but a pass slipped through the hands of the intended receiver and was picked off at the Lowell 10 yard line with just 0:50 remaining.

Feeley led the Andover ground game with 68 yards in 10 carries, while Jim Landry added 40 yards in four lugs.

McCue was a perfect 5-for-5 through the air, picking up 151 yards, while Matt Daniels hit 2-of-3 tosses for 32 yards. Both had one touchdown pass.

Feeley returned two kickoffs for 48 yards, Landry two for 40 yards and Kevin Ring one for 18 yards, giving the Warriors good field position to start every drive.

Lowell held a wide 19-5 advantage in first downs.

Despite the score there was one good defensive play by Andover, tackle Jason Twombly causing a Lowell fumble and recovering it at the Warriors' five yard line late in the half. It was the only time Lowell was thwarted all afternoon.

Andover hosts the Lawrence freshmen tomorrow afternoon at the Doherty Middle School field (3:15 p.m.).

Andover, 22-0

Andover returned to the victory trail against Lawrence (3-3-0), doing all its scoring in the first half and exploding for 16 points in the second quarter.

Jim Landry raced 35 yards on a trap play for one TD, and hooked up with quarterback Matt Daniels on a three-yard screen pass for six.

Warrior Swimmers End Appropriately

The dual meet competition for Andover High School a week ago against Chelmsford was the way all dual meets and seasons should end for the seniors who swam their final dual meet competition.

The meet came down to the last relay and each of the first three pairs of swimmers were virtually stroke for stroke. Erik Suduiko, Lisa Fox and Pam Boucher kept things even through the first 300 yards. Then, in the middle of the last leg, Amy Van Aken flew past the Chelmsford anchor swimmer to give Andover the relay win and the 89-83 victory in the meet.

Kristen Hubbell, Michelle McCarthy, Laura Ghirardini and Tracey Pool won the 200-yard medley relay. Boucher, a triple winner, took her first victory in the 200-yard freestyle.

Van Aken, also a triple winner, easily captured the 200-yard individual medley with Hubbell third. Suduiko won the 50 free for her first of three. Pool was fifth in a blanket finish. Kasie Kearins and Alyssa Farris were fourth and fifth, respectively, in the diving competition with Kearins posting a sectional-qualifying score.

Van Aken took her second individual victory in the 100 yard butterfly with Ghirardini second and Kate Robb fifth. Suduiko doubled in the 100 free with Pool third and Karen Pedersen fifth.

Boucher and the Chelmsford swimmer battled for 19 lengths in the 500 free with Boucher taking an advantage on the last turn and holding it for the win. Fox added valuable points in third place.

Hubbell won a hard-fought race in the 100-yard backstroke as she recorded a personal best time. McCarthy also pulled out a close race in the 100-yard breaststroke. Robb scored fourth-place points.

The free relay, the last event, was literally the icing on Pam Boucher's birthday cake. What a way to go out winners for the 11 graduating seniors: Kristen Albertich, freestyle and breaststroke; Pam Bocher, freestyle, all distances, butterfly, sectional and state qualifier, MVC second team All-Star; Debbie Brendle, freestyle; Lisa Fox, freestyle, all distances, I.M., sectional qualifier, state competitor, MVC third team All-Star, co-captain; Laura Ghirardini, sprint freestyle, butterfly, backstroke, sectional and state qualifier, MVC second team All-Star, co-captain; Tracy Lee, diving; Tricia Novelline, freestyle; Karen Pedersen, freestyle, breaststroke, I.M.; Kate Robb, breaststroke, butterfly, I.M., sectional qualifier; Eszter Vajda, distance freestyle; Amy Van Aken, freestyle, all distances, butterfly, I.M., North Sectional champion 1987, second in butterfly, seventh in 200 free, MVC All-Star first team.

Coach Patty Barrett and assistant Abby Robb presented roses to the graduating seniors.

Andover Man Combines Love Of Basketball, Europe

What do you get when you take a bunch of guys who love to shoot hoops and put them in Europe?

The "most laughs enjoyed and turn-overs suffered by an American force since the D-day invasion," according to Don Strong of Andover, who organizes basketball tours in Europe.

Strong, 47, a former Boston University guard and 20-year player for the Andover Men's League, got an idea while on business abroad. "In the fall of '84, I was shooting around in a big sports park, just shooting baskets, when some sports director came over and started talking," Strong said. "I said, 'Wouldn't it be great if I brought some of my cronies over to see Europe?' And he said, 'Is it possible you could play against some of my professional teams?'"

Strong said yes, and two years later, he and a half dozen colleagues at Computervision in Bedford went across the Atlantic to play three games. "There were no referees; it was very unstructured," he said.

The Americans played two Belgian teams and one from Holland, Division 2 and 3 teams Strong compared to "some of the teams playing in the Olympics, only not as good."

He and his teammates had such a good time, Strong said, "I started to think, 'Maybe it's worthwhile.'"

Strong and his fiancée, Michelle Runk, now run Europa Haus out of offices at 179 Great Road in Acton. Besides organizing basketball tours, camps and tournaments in Europe, the business sponsors language schools.

Strong's interest in European culture started at an early age. He says his paternal grandparents were German, and his mother is French Canadian. From 1963 to '68, he was a carrier pilot and took two or three cruises to Europe. Strong, who sometimes uses the German version of his name, Dieter Stark, speaks German.

After leaving Computervision as head of communications for the firm's European division, Strong started Europa Haus as a gift shop, an enterprise he recently sold.

He just returned from Europe, where he said he was working on the possibility of more basketball tours.

He and a group of fellow "b-ball junkies" made their first official tour in May. He was joined by local residents and former college basketball players Ed Minishak, who had played for Northeastern University; Doug and Rob Ahern, Fitchburg State College and Idaho A&I; Greg Herenda, Merrimack College, current Merrimack assistant coach; Mark Calzonetti, St. John's, Bentley College assistant coach; Bruno Giles, Boston State; and Dave Miller, University of Vermont.

The team, dubbed Hoop Europa's Grey Eagles, played four games, winning three. The Eagles lost to an Aarschot, Belgium, team.

"We had some good ball players," Strong said.

Early in October, the Eagles returned to Europe for a follow-up 10-day trip, during which they played five games—and won three. Once again, they were defeated by the Aarschot team, which Strong said is Belgium's number one team in the second division of the pro league.

The Eagles played Aarschot again two nights later and "with good referees," beat them by 27 points.

On the second tour, the Americans had a new addition: Vic Lazaretti of Andover, former player for Marquette University.

"We needed a really good big man," Strong said. At 6 feet, 9 inches, Lazaretti fit the bill.

Apparently, he did a good job. When he got back from the October trip, Lazaretti called Strong to say a Belgian team called Trane-Castro had offered him a position. The team, according to Strong, is Belgium's top team in the top division.

"When I heard that, I said, 'Vic, I wish I was 4 inches taller and 20 years younger,'" said Strong, adding that Lazaretti is averaging 14 points and 7 rebounds per game.

The second Hoop Europa team was an eclectic one. Also playing were two New Yorkers who had read about the program in an ad Strong put in The New York Times—a sports medicine doctor and a sculptor.

Besides recruiting teammates for his Hoop Europa tours, Strong says he's organizing three basketball camps for kids, two in Belgium, one near Frankfurt, Germany, in August. He's also working on an eight-team tournament, slated for early May, between four American and four European teams.

The cost of the tour includes roundtrip airfare, hotel, breakfasts daily and most dinners, guides, tours, uniforms and a videotape of the trip's highlights, Strong said.

Basketball is enjoying a fast-growing popularity in Europe, Strong said. "I think it's mainly because America things are popular," he said. "They see American players, and it catches on. People see it, and they love the game."

A few American stars are known in Europe too. "When I said I could bring over some good ball players, they said, 'You can get us Magic Johnson, Larry Bird?'"

North Andover's Tim Quinlan (#33) gets the jump on an Aarschot, Belgium, player to start the "Hoop Europa" tour against some of Europe's toughest pro teams. The American squad lost the first contest to Aarschot, 105-93, but gained revenge two nights later with a stunning 87-65 blowout victory.

They may be enchanted by the game, but the Europeans' playing style is not the same as the Americans', according to Strong, who said the foreign team members are "not as intense or aggressive as we are. One team was beating us, and as soon as we caught up and went ahead of them, they just gave up as if to say, 'We did our best.' If they had maintained their pressure and athleticism, they probably could have gone into overtime."

Support Group

The displaced homemaker program at the Lawrence YWCA will offer a job search support group on Thursday, Nov. 17, at 10 a.m.

Along with support, the group will offer additional job information, assistance in preparing for a job interview or ideas in preparing for a more successful interview.

For more information, call Carol Guy or Carmen Robles at the Lawrence Y, 38 Lawrence St.

But the tour isn't all basketball, said Strong, who claims the Grey Eagles have set a record for "most cathedrals, castles, casinos, cabarets and golf courses (327) visited by an English-speaking team."

"That's the whole point of this trip—you get a lot of basketball, serious big time basketball, for over there; but you also have a lot of fun," Strong said. "We put on 30 pounds worth of Belgian chocolate, see the sights, take in the culture."

Greg Herenda of Orchard Street, Merrimack College's assistant basketball coach, teaches a Belgian youngster the fine points of shooting during a special clinic conducted on the May "Hoop Europa" tour.

Pee Wee A's Undefeated

The Andover Pee Wee A hockey team remained undefeated through 10 games and five weeks of play in the Dual State League and Valley League. In order to accomplish this, Andover had to face a rough and tough East Boston team on Oct. 22 in Saugus. When the final buzzer sounded, the same was tied 8-8. Although Andover never trailed in the game, they narrowly missed out on a big win as East Boston scored the tying goal with less than two minutes left in the game.

Ryan Moynihan got Andover off to a 1-0 first-period lead when he won a faceoff and fired a hard shot past the East Boston goalie. It was the only goal scored in that period. In the second period, however, a total of 10 goals were scored. Tim McGovern scored when he took a pass from Moynihan and fired a shot from the right side that eluded the East Boston goalie. Moynihan scored less than a minute later after a pass from McGovern.

After East Boston scored two quick goals to tie the game, Brendan Sheehy poked in a rebound from a scramble in front of the net. Then defenseman Bobby Daley picked up a loose puck at center ice and made a solo rush, finishing the play with a nice fake on the goalie and putting a shot into the net. East Boston narrowed the score 5-4 before Sheehy scored again with assists going to Dave Wartman and Richie Enos. However, East Boston scored just six seconds later to narrow the lead 6-5 at the end of two periods.

Andover began the third period strongly as McGovern scored his second goal on a beautiful pass from Scott Munroe across the front of the net. Again East Boston scored two quick goals to tie 7-7. Eight seconds later Munroe took a pass from Moynihan and went down the left side before putting a shot past the goalie. East Boston knotted the final score at 8-8 near the end of the game.

Andover has managed a record of seven wins, no losses and three ties.

Dear Pauline:

I have been in the marketing, advertising and public relations business for over 14 years, and for most of those years have specialized in real estate development marketing. One of the major portions of this business is media planning, budgeting, and placement. It is the agency's responsibility to place ads in the newspaper that will produce traffic to the new home development.

When I moved to New Hampshire five years ago and began researching New England media, a client told me about The Andover Townsmen. They said, "I don't know why...but that paper pulls in the traffic!" Well five years later, and having been a part of many successful development teams, The Andover Townsmen has been a consistent part of my media plans.

The demographics, circulation and cost per thousand combined with the amount of traffic it generates to the new developments has, I can honestly say, been a secret to my success! I have the happy customers and have recently opened up my own agency to prove it!

It has been both an honor and great pleasure to give this testimonial to The Andover Townsmen, a paper that produces the traffic and generates success!

Sincerely,

DeeMarie LaJeunesse

Warrior Girls Soccer Leaders Take Top Conference Honors

By Rick Harrison

Senior forward Kerry Fitzpatrick was named Most Valuable Player of the Merrimack Valley Girls' Soccer Conference, Andover coach Dick Loschi won the league's first annual Coach-of-the-Year award, and George Sullivan was named Large School co-Coach of the Year in the Merrimack Valley Volleyball Conference.

Those awards highlighted the honors for locals as the MVC announced its All-Stars in soccer, field hockey and volleyball last week.

Fitzpatrick, with seven goals and seven assists this season for the undefeated league champs and defending state Division 1 co-champs (17-0-2), played both forward and halfback for the Lady Warriors.

"She's an extremely versatile player," said coach Loschi. "We used her at several different positions this season, and no matter where I put her the action revolved around her. She's the most diversified player and one of the most aggressive we've had at Andover in my nine years here."

Fitzpatrick edged Chelmsford fullback Kristen Okvist for the top award, and becomes Andover's second straight league MVP after Karen DelSarto won similar recognition last year.

Joining Fitzpatrick on the All-Conference team are three underclassmen, junior goaltender Nicole Ricci (15 shutouts, 0.11 goals-against average), junior sweeperback Andrea Duffy, and junior fullback Brenna Cronin.

Chosen to play in the MVC All-Star Game at Lovely Field in Andover were the four All-Conference selections, along with junior halfback Jodi Saunders, junior halfback Kathy Doran and junior striker Suzanne Gianelly.

On the boys' soccer side, senior wing Scott Clementi (15 goals, four assists) and senior goalie Eric Hammond (11 shutouts) were selected to the 15-player MVC All-Conference team.

Also playing in the All-Star Game, in addition to Clementi and Hammond, were senior midfielder Eric Jones and senior forward/Capt. Peter Kannam (10 goals).

In field hockey, senior forward Amy Mencis was named to the 16-player MVC All-Conference squad.

She played in the annual All-Star Game last Friday night in Chelmsford, being joined by AHS teammates Jeannine Meckel and senior goaltender/Capt. Lee Dziadosz.

In volleyball, Julie Salazar was named to the All-Conference team as a hitter.

She also finished among the top three league players in the balloting for MVP, and as such will become an Eastern Mass. Division 1 All-Scholastic.

All-Conference honorable mention status went to Grace Park (defense) and Cate Doherty (server).

Those three girls were joined by Kristin Sullivan (server) on the All-Star team

Pee Wee A's Streak Continues

The Pee Wee A hockey team won two games over the weekend. They skated away with a well-deserved 6-0 win over a previously unbeaten North Andover on Friday night. Andover was led by Ryan Moynihan who scored three goals and two assists. Three minutes into the game he collected a pass from Danny Trede at his own blue line and skated the length of the ice before putting a shot high into the left corner of the net. The period ended with Andover ahead 1-0.

Brendan Sheehy scored in the second period when he poked in a rebound of a shot by Richie Enos. Moynihan picked up his second goal when he managed to turn the net and stuff the puck into the corner before the goalie could recover. Tim McGovern and Scott Munroe assisted. Seconds later Munroe was able to poke in his own rebound after receiving a pass from Moynihan.

Moynihan picked up the puck near the side of the North Andover net in the final period and was able to stuff it past the goalie. Munroe picked up an assist on the play. McGovern scored a goal on a pretty give-and-go pass play that originated on a pass from McGovern to Moynihan and back to McGovern for the goal. Fred Sunderland was very strong in net as he recorded his second shutout of the season.

Andover played Danvers at Merrimack College on Sunday and ran up a 3-0 lead before the first period ended. Brian Flanagan opened the scoring with a hard shot from directly in front of the Danvers' goal. Moments later, Munroe scored on passes from Moynihan and McGovern. Late in the period, McGovern scored with assists going to Moynihan and Munroe.

Moynihan scored in the second period after a rebound of shots from Munroe and McGovern. He scored again moments later after receiving a beautiful centering pass from Munroe. McGovern also assisted on the goal. Munroe scored in the third period with assists going to Moynihan and McGovern to make the score 6-0. Andover goalie Phil Smith made several key saves but lost his bid for a shutout when Danvers was able to put two late goals past him.

Mrs. Walter Anderson will be among the more than 80 craftspeople from all over New England selling their handmade articles at a craft show at the Sheraton Inn on Route 133 in Andover on Sunday, Nov. 13, from 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Todd Allard also combined with QB Jason McCue on a 25-yard pass-and-run touchdown play, Allard's first TD of the season, while two-point conversions were added by both Kevin Ring and Dan Feeley on passes from Matt Harris and Matt Daniels respectively.

Andover could have won by a larger margin, but two touchdowns were called back in the second half including an 80-yard run by Feeley nullified by a clipping penalty.

The winners finished with 237 yards on 30 rushes, and 45 yards on 5-for-10 passing by Daniels and McCue.

Feeley led the balanced ground attack with 58 yards in seven carries, Ring added 47 in two rushes, Landry 42 in five totes, Dan Waitkevitch 40 in four lugs, and Mike Pettoruto 27 in five carries.

Lawrence managed just two first downs the entire game, and key turnovers included a pass interception by Matt Harris and fumble recovery on the kickoff by Jim Landry.

chances to score. We couldn't finish off the plays."

A large crowd turned out for the Friday night game at Lovely Field.

"The people were very responsive," noted Amundsen. "They were really into it, cheering every shot."

The Warriors finished the season 13-3-3 overall, winning a share of their seventh Merrimack Valley Conference Large School championship in the last eight years.

"The low point of the season was losing a point to Central (2-2 tie) late in the year, while the high points were the clutch wins over Chelmsford (5-0) and Billerica (4-0) when we really needed them," said Amundsen. "Those were the only two times our offense caught fire against a tough opponent."

Andover graduates 13 seniors, including nine of 11 starters, from this team. Among them are Matt Pothier, Pete Kannam, Eric Jones, Scott Clementi, Jim Spinelli, Mark Angelos, Bob Hughes, Dave Manning, Justin Perlino, Mark Leinson and goaltender Eric Hammond.

The only underclassmen who started regularly were junior fullbacks Kevin Murphy and Chuck Jessico, although Matt McVicar and John Mattola saw considerable action.

Zamkochian In Concert

Internationally acclaimed organist Berj Zamkochian will play a recital on the famous Methuen Memorial Music Hall organ, 192 Broadway in Methuen, Sunday at 3 p.m.

Memorial Music Hall's organ was designed by composer Franz Liszt for the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the Boston Music Hall. When Symphony Hall was built, the "Great Organ" found its current home in Methuen. The music hall was specially designed for the organ.

Zamkochian's Nov. 13 program will include organ works by Vivaldi, Bach, Vierne, Widor and Messiaen.

The organist completed his first European tour of the current season in mid October, playing concerts in Germany, Austria and Italy. His final concert in Italy was at the Basilica of St. Mark. Pianist To Be Guest Artist

Joan Rowland

Pianist Joan Rowland will be the guest artist at a concert Nov. 18 at 8 p.m. at Graves Hall on the Phillips Academy campus. One of the works on Rowland's program was composed by a PA graduate.

A native of Toronto, Canada, Rowland began her piano studies with Mona Bates. By the time she was 11, Rowland had played many solo recitals and appeared with such orchestras as the Toronto Symphony. She continued her studies with Edward Steuermann of the Juilliard School of Music and made her New York debut in Town Hall at age 18.

Concert tours for several years followed under Columbia Artists management, which took her through most of the United States and Canada. Subsequently, she toured for two seasons with clarinetist Reginald Kell, playing as a chamber artist and a soloist.

In Europe Rowland won a first prize at the International Festival of Modern Music in Darmstadt and another first at the Mozarteum Piano Competition in Salzburg. She has played concerts and recitals in Austria, Germany, Italy and England, where critics mentioned her "overwhelming temperament" and the abiding clarity they say characterizes her playing.

Rowland recently toured Canada with an all-Liszt program, which she presented as part of the PA concert series last season. She will commemorate the 40th anniversary of her debut in New York on Feb. 14 in New York City. The program will highlight the complete 24 Preludes of Chopin.

In addition to her solo career, Rowland is a partner in the Piano Duo Schnabel, performing original compositions for one piano, four hands. The duo has recently played in Toronto and Stuttgart and will give a recital at the Frick Collection in New York on Dec. 11.

Rowland's program at PA will include Fantasia in C, Opus 17 by Robert Schumann; L'Isle Joyeuse by Claude Debussy; Sonata in A Major K. 331 by Wolfgang Mozart; Five Preludes from Opus 28 (numbers 27-17-18-21-16) and Grand Valse Brillante, Opus 18 by Frederic Chopin; and Suite "Off Seasons", a 1987 composition by PA alumnus Geoffrey Kidde.

Kidde graduated this year from New England Conservatory of Music with a master's degree in composition. His composition teachers have included Malcolm Peyton, John Heiss and George Tsontakis. In addition to composing, Kidde is active as a flutist in the Boston area.

There is no charge for admission, and the public is invited.

Microfilm Manual Wins Award

A manual on preservation microfilming jointly produced by the Northeast Document Conservation Center in Andover won an award.

Preservation Microfilming: A Guide for Librarians and Archivists, edited by Nancy E. Gwinn and produced by NEDCC and the Association of Research Libraries, received the Waldo Gifford Leland Prize. The award, presented by the Society of American Archivists, was announced at the society's annual conference in Atlanta, Ga. The Leland Prize was created in 1959 to reward "writing of superior excellence and usefulness in the field of archival history, theory or practice."

NEDCC called Preservation Microfilming a handy manual to assist administrators in planning and implementing microfilming projects. Each chapter covers in detail one aspect of preservation microfilming, including overall planning, selection and preparation of materials to be filmed and storage and care of master negatives.

The manual gives instruction on contracting for filming services, establishing good quality control routines and estimating costs and includes standards and guidelines to follow and a sample contract and other forms.

Preservation Microfilming was developed by ARL and NEDCC with funding from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation and the National Historical Publications and Record Commission. The manual was published by the American Library Association. Gwinn, assistant director of collections management at the Smithsonian Institution Libraries, edited the chapters drafted by 16 librarians, archivists, administrators and preservation professionals. Andrew W. Raymond, former NEDCC assistant director of photoduplication services, served as project coordinator.

The Document Conservation Center has operated a preservation microfilming service since 1978. The film produced at NEDCC meets the most rigorous quality standards and adheres to the specifications set by the Library of Congress, according to the center's staff.

Since aging and brittle paper is a problem for preservation institutions, more of them are turning to preservation microfilm as the viable solution for saving valuable information and making it available to a wide audience, according to NEDCC. Recent projects filmed at the center include music manuscripts from the Juilliard School of Music, scrapbooks from the Brooklyn Museum and books and pamphlets from the Onondaga Public Library.

NEDCC said its staff, recognizing the need for making information available to administrators of preservation microfilming projects, became involved with ARL in the production of the manual.

"Institutions undertaking microfilming projects should consider using the guide as a basic text," said Mary Elizabeth Ruwell, current director of photoduplication services at NEDCC. "We are certainly recommending it to everyone who calls us, even if they have previous experience with microfilm."

NEDCC is a non-profit, regional conservation center that specializes in the preservation of library and archives collections as well as art on paper, photographs, historic maps and architectural drawings. NEDCC performs paper conservation, bookbinding, photoduplication of historic photographic materials and microfilming. Staff members also make their expertise available for surveys, workshops and disaster assistance.

To order Preservation Microfilming, contact the American Library Association, Publishing Service Order Department, 50 East Huron, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

bin. Is she the only one who cares? People are taking their leaves to the landfill, but there are still lots of bags along the street ready to slow down trash disposal this week and next. Do you think that habits can't be changed? Do you think the environment needs cleaning up? Would you like to see less tax money spent on trash disposal? Is this a political issue, a scientific issue, a financial issue, a moral issue? Are you going to join the program?

egies designed to help spot products and decipher labels that could undermine your health will be held at the high school Tuesday, Nov. 15, from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Learn to make sound and intelligent choices.

Meditation

Meditation will be taught Wednesday, Nov. 16, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at Bancroft. The term meditation refers to a family of techniques that train a person to focus in a non-analytical way on an attentional device such as breathing or a mantra. The benefits of meditation include calmness, clarity of thought and the freeing of creative energy.

Folkart Christmas Stocking

Make a painted wood stocking with chenille cuff at a workshop on Wednesday, Nov. 16, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at Doherty Middle School. Register at the DCS office.

Assistance

Available

Fuel assistance funds are available to help people on low- or fixed-income pay winter heating bills. Because funds are limited, the program's operating year will be shortened by two months and will extend from Nov. 1 to March 31.

"Even if you received fuel assistance last winter, you must apply again for help with heating bills this winter," said Sonja Teasdale, manager, customer responsibility, Bay State Gas.

Lawrence is a family-run gym with competitive teams and gym classes for boys and girls of all ages. Gymnasts from Merrimack Valley have competed in sectional, state, regional and national sanctioned events. Proceeds from Las Vegas night will be donated to the gym.

Openings

Marie O'Boyle, manager of the Rockingham Mall in Salem, N.H., announces the opening of T.J. Maxx, Cummings and Gordon's Jewelers as part of the mall expansion.

The expansion project will increase the mall's space from 230,000 square feet to almost 400,000 square feet. Completion is slated for spring 1989.

Down The Years

proceed to the Legion Hall on Park Street to join the Legion Post. Armistice services will be held at Spring Grove Cemetery.

25 Years Ago — November 1963

Joseph F. Adams of Birch Road has been named chairman of the town's Land Acquisition Committee.

The Knights of Columbus Council 1078, Thanksgiving Cheer will be held at the Elks Home, Park Street, Nov. 22. All are welcome.

Bernard F. Magane, one of three principals owning the disputed office building on Florence Street, told the Townsman that an appeal will be taken to the Mass. Supreme Court, from the Superior Court decision that the location is in a single residence district.

Five additional transfers from reserve funds to operating accounts have been approved by the Finance Committee. The largest single recipient of funds to date has been the snow and ice removal account — $3,340 was transferred last week.

The Golden Warriors of Andover whipped Amesbury, 12-0, Monday afternoon on the muddy playground.

Although it's not perfect, town accountant Wendell A. Mattheson thinks he has a "pretty tight system" set up to make certain that all merchandise paid for by the town has been received.

10 Years Ago — November 1978

Andover voters followed state trends in all but the governor's race Tuesday as about 73 percent of the town's 15,000 voters cast ballots. Locally, voters favored the Frank Hatch-William Cowin bid for the governor-it. governor offices with 6,251 votes over the state-wide winners, Democrats Edward J. King and Thomas P. O'Neill, III, who had 4,396.

Andover State Rep. Gerald M. Cohen returned to the House for a third term in Tuesday's election. Cohen was an easy winner in the race against Donald T. Coleman of High Street in the new 17th Essex District which now includes sections of Tower Hill in Lawrence. Cohen was elected in 1974 in an all-Andover district.

Parents of youngsters in the overcrowded first grades at Sanborn and South Schools aren't getting the additional teachers they've been hoping for, but the School Committee came through Tuesday night with additional instructional aide time.

Supt. Kenneth Seifert, responding to a petition from some 60 Bancroft parents, said Tuesday night he would ask the police department to look into the matter of safety for youngsters who walk to school and that he would ask Public Works Director Robert McQuade about extending sidewalks where none exist in school areas.

Plans for a massive renovation-addition project for Andover's secondary school, chugging merrily along the track toward Spring Town Meeting, slammed to an abrupt halt this week. Because of new cost information, which indicates that it might be cheaper to build a new East Jr. High than renovate the old one, the matter will be taken back to special Town Meeting Dec. 11.

Goodwin, Reg. Land Surveyor, dated October 1, 1971, recorded with Essex North District Registry of Deeds as Plan No. 6538.

A portion of the granted premises is registered land, and described as follows:

That certain parcel of land situated in Andover in the County of Essex and said Commonwealth, bounded and described as follows:

So much of the above described land as is included within the area marked "Lawrence Electric Company Easement" approximately shown on said plan is subject to easements as set forth in two grants made by James J. There is appurtenant to the above described land the right to use all roads as shown on said plan for all purposes for which streets and roads are used in the Town of Andover in common with all others lawfully entitled thereto.

The parcel shall be conveyed subject to all unpaid real estate taxes, betterment assessments, federal or state liens, water bills, any and all municipal liens, and all easements, conditions, restrictions and encumbrances of record created prior to the mortgage held by First Bank, insofar as any are now in force and applicable, if any there be.

REAL ESTATE GUIDELINES

Realty U.S.A.
Schruender Real Estate

WHAT TO DO ABOUT TERMITES

Most real estate purchase contracts require a certificate from a licensed exterminator saying the house has no termites or other wood boring insects. In deciding whether or not to pass on a house, the inspector will look for two things. Is there an active infestation? Is there evidence of a past infestation? Many exterminators don't want to certify a home bug free unless the answer to both questions is "no".

If the house you're selling doesn't pass muster with the termite man or woman, get a list of qualified exterminators for your Realtor. Talk to several and find out what treatment options you may have and what each company charges - they are quite competitive. If your home was treated for a past infestation, the company that did that extermination may be willing to recertify you home without a second treatment. Arrange your termite inspection as early as possible so, if there are bugs, you'll have time to explore the best way of getting rid of them.

If you are considering a move, contact the professionals at Realty USA Schruender Real Estate. Call us at 685-5000 or stop by our offices at 73 Chickering Road, North Andover.

Work Reroutes Traffic

By Julie M. Barry

Road construction in Andover is forcing motorists to seek alternate routes to avoid traffic tie-ups. Dascomb Road, River Road and Route 133, all heavily traveled roads, are the sites of local construction projects.

Initial work on the Route 133 overpass at the junction of Interstate 93 began this week and will last for about five weeks.

During that time, construction workers will shield the bridge, a safety measure to prepare for the major operation — upgrading the bridge.

Shielding involves building a plywood structure underneath the bridge to prevent any debris from falling through during the actual work on the bridge, said Phyllis Melchionna, spokesperson for the state department of public works.

The construction will affect the flow of traffic. "We expect there will be a notable traffic impact, especially on Raytheon and the IRS," said Melchionna.

While an effort is being made to maintain a comfortable flow of traffic, Melchionna said, "realistically, there will be back-ups." And, she encourages local motorists to use alternate routes.

A minimum of three police officers will direct traffic; signs will mark the alternate routes; and barriers will be placed around the construction — all are safety measures intended to make things run more smoothly, said Melchionna.

Motorists will be faced with the following changes during the next five weeks of construction:

- Eastbound ramps going on to Interstate 93 will be closed from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Motorists traveling in both directions will be routed to the westbound ramps.

- Two lanes of traffic will still be open on the bridge, but the width of the lanes is being reduced.

- Sidewalks on the bridge will be excavated. But, Melchionna says they will be replaced after construction.

The construction, a state and federally funded project which costs $1.3 million, should be completed by June 1989.

Several bridges on Interstate 93 are being upgraded and this project is similar to the construction taking place on the Dascomb Road bridge, which will be finished within the next month, said Melchionna. And, she said the bridge on Rte. 495 is next in line for rehabilitation.

AEA Sponsors Contest

The Andover Education Association is taking part in American Education Week and they are involving students in grades one to eight by sponsoring a bookmark contest.

Prizes will be given and the original winning entries will be displayed at Memorial Hall library during American Education Week, Nov. 13-19.

AEA will also be sponsoring a reception at the library on Thursday, Nov. 17 from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. This will enable student's to show their work. And, it will allow teachers to view the new wing of the library and meet with the staff at Memorial Hall. AEA will present a book to the library in celebration of the wing's opening.

American Education Week, first celebrated in 1921, has promoted a variety of themes throughout the years, including "Education for Victory" in 1943 and "Education Meets the Challenge of Change" in 1962.

This year's theme is "America's Schools: Invest in Your Future."

Ideology for such a week dates back to 1919. Representatives of the National Education Association, American Legion, and U.S. Office of Education discussed launching a campaign that would solicit public support of a new emphasis on education in the aftermath of World War I.

Concern was generated because draft boards had discovered that about 25 percent of the military draftees were illiterate and some 29 percent were physically unfit.

In response, conventions of the NEA and the American Legion adopted resolutions calling for cooperative efforts to raise public awareness of the importance of education for the nation's well-being.

NEA Representative Assembly delegates meeting in 1921 approved a resolution that said "an educational week should be observed in all communities annually for the purpose of informing the public of the accomplishments and needs of the public schools and to secure the cooperation and support of the public in meeting those needs."

Deadline Coming Up For '78 Reunion

The Andover High School class of 1978 is holding its 10-year reunion Friday, Nov. 25, at the Andover Marriott. Cocktails will begin at 6:30 p.m. with a buffet dinner at 8 and dancing.

Tickets must be ordered. Contact the class of '78, P.O. Box 4078, Ballardvale Station, Andover, Mass. 01810.

The reunion committee is still searching for "lost alumni."

Dining Guide

Fall Edition
November 10, 1988

ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Dining out, once reserved for special occasions, has now become a popular American experience.

According to the National Restaurant Association, the average person eats out three times a week. Maybe it's because of our fast-paced lifestyles, which leave little time to make full-course meals. Or maybe, according to association members, it's just because we love to be served.

Whatever this reason, you'll find the right atmosphere and menu in these pages.

Pedro Diego's Pleases Those Who Like It Hot

Pedro Diego's in Haverhill boasts the slogan "Some Like It Hot!"

And the restaurant is sure to please those who do—and those who do not. Located at 35 Washington St., the restaurant features "southern California style" Mexican cuisine in a festive atmosphere.

Owner Peter Houvouras calls his restaurant "a south-of-the-border touch in Haverhill's historic district." Houvouras says the southern California style of preparation is "the authentic way of serving Mexican fare." He adds that chicken, seafood and beans are used in many dishes and that everything is made on the premises.

Some of the more traditional items on the menu are burritos and enchiladas with your choice of stuffings—ordinary and exotic.

Chimichanga, tacos with shredded beef and tostadas are other tasty treats Pedro Diego's offers.

But not everyone likes it hot. Houvouras says not all Mexican food is hot and spicy. Many of his dishes are prepared with mildly spiced filling, like the tostada with "gringo-style" ground beef. A separate section of the menu is devoted to people who really would rather not. It lists hamburgers, cheeseburgers and tuna salads.

A list of appetizers—nachos, Margarita's bean dip, guacamole, chile and gazpacho—will get the meal off to a good start. And, for a finisher, Pedro Diego's has desserts like flan (an egg custard served with chocolate, coffee or caramel sauce on a fried flour tortilla) and homemade pies. It also has an array of coffees and cocktails.

But the best thing about this little restaurant is the prices. You can get an inexpensive and delicious meal there without emptying your pockets.

Takeout orders are available, and reservations can be made for groups of five or more. It's only a 20-minute drive north of Andover.

The National Restaurant Association says men eat away from home more frequently than women and singles eat out more often than families. The association adds that 78 percent of all families report eating at restaurants regularly.

Kingston House Commended

It has been an award-filled year for the popular Kingston 1686 House in Kingston, N.H.

Beginning last fall, the Kingston House won Wine Spectator magazine's prestigious award of excellence for having "one of the outstanding restaurant wine lists in the world."

The international recognition was echoed locally when the Kingston House also won the "best wine list" award in Seacoast Life magazine's "best of the seacoast" readers' poll.

The restaurant's acclaim is not limited to wines. Its delectable Savannah Spring Chowder captured first place this summer in Portsmouth's famous Prescott Park Chowder Fest.

And underscoring the Kingston House's overall excellence is the fact that it has won the coveted Mobil Three-Star Award for the eighth consecutive year.

The beautifully preserved 300-year-old house features an enchanting atmosphere, complete with flickering candlelight, crackling fireplaces, elegant table settings, classical background music, handcrafted crewel pieces and a staff in period costume.

Prime-graded meats and fresh seafood highlight a varied menu that includes such specialties as live lobster, rack of lamb, Plume de Veau veal dishes, baked stuffed haddock, chateaubriand, roast L.I. duckling and baked stuffed El Presidente jumbo shrimp—all individually prepared to order.

Other special features of the menu include the abundance of tempting extras graciously served with all dinners and delicious homemade desserts with pure, freshly whipped cream.

The Kingston House is popular for private gatherings of all kinds, whether it's a cozy dinner party of 10 or more in one of the intimate dining rooms, a cocktail party in the comfortable Four Centuries Lounge or a beautiful wedding or holiday party in the elegant Linden Room, seating up to 150.

Delightful for any occasion, the Kingston 1686 House takes on an added appeal at holiday time.

What could be more appropriate than a traditional Thanksgiving feast in a 300-year-old setting, bright with pumpkins and bittersweet?

And at Christmas time, the whole restaurant is set aglow with holiday magic, making an evening at the Kingston 1686 House one of the special events of the season.

Restaurant Promises Fine Dining, Elegant Atmosphere

The woods are lovely, dark and deep.

*But I have promises to keep,
And miles to go before I sleep,
And miles to go before I sleep.*

A familiar line from Robert Frost's "Stopping by Woods on a Snowy Evening" provides the name of the area's most elegant dining facility, Promises To Keep, one mile south of the Robert Frost homestead on Route 28 in Derry, N.H.

Promises To Keep is a striking building with a glass-roofed dining room, cathedral ceilings and window walls. Dinners are served on fine English china, and flatware is imported from Holland. Full linen and fresh-cut flowers finish a truly elegant table setting. Service is formal, yet friendly, from tuxedo-type attired servers.

The cuisine at Promises To Keep is American and continental. Baked haddock and broiled steaks are available, along with more adventurous entrees, like veal a l'Oscar, duck a l'orange, blackened redfish and beef Wellington. All items are skillfully prepared by owner/chef John Oudheusden, former owner/chef of the Andover Inn.

Dutch chef Oudheusden prepares a traditional Indonesian rijstafel, which is offered on Monday evenings only.

A delightful dining experience can be complemented with a selection from the pastry tray, filled with tempting delicacies prepared by the full-time pastry chef.

Promises To Keep also boasts an elegant function facility that can accommodate parties from 10 to 200. The beautiful chandeliered ceilings make the rooms suitable for weddings, anniversary parties, business meetings and other functions. The restaurant/function facility was the idea of Oudheusden and his business partner and general manager, David Kolifrath. Their idea was to bring a restaurant that could provide a truly elegant dining experience into the quiet and beauty of the southern New Hampshire countryside.

Many of their peers considered the move risky, but less than three years later, the two owners have proven their idea was sound. Since the popular restaurant has been a tremendous success, the owners say, it is obvious the area was ready for a restaurant of its quality.

Reservations are always suggested, and gentlemen's jackets are required during dinner hours, which are from 5:30 p.m. daily, except Sundays, when dinner is served from 4 p.m. Most major credit cards are accepted.

Open 7 Days A Week / We Also Have Take-Out

Backstreet Marks 10 Years

Backstreet Restaurant, located at 19 Essex St., Andover, is celebrating its 10th anniversary this month. Owners Alan and Lillian Shulman are planning a gala party on Tuesday, Nov. 29, to celebrate.

During the past decade, Backstreet has achieved critical acclaim for its elegant dining and outstanding service as well as the area's top live entertainment.

Backstreet is open for lunch and dinner seven days a week and offers an outstanding Sunday brunch from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

General Manager Chris Fascione cites a number of changes as the restaurant launches its second decade. "We are currently changing all menus with the dinner menu completed and luncheon, bar and menu nearing completion," he said. "Our new menus are the culmination of the efforts of the entire Backstreet staff as well as input from our customers. The most popular items from previous menus have been retained and many exciting new items have been added...."

"In addition, Backstreet is one of the few eating establishments in the northeast to offer fresh Florida stone crabs flown in daily along with other Florida seafood, including red snapper, mako shark, grouper, swordfish, tuna and others," he said.

Also underway are significant redecoration efforts throughout the restaurant as well as expansion into other food service activities.

Backstreet added new delicacies to its menu, such as beef Wellington, chateaubriand for two and numerous veal, chicken and seafood entrees.

Old Habit Of Tipping Began In Middle Ages

Tipping began in the Middle Ages when it became customary to reward the servant who rushed out to the carriage with a beverage. That servant received a coin so he too could enjoy a beverage in return for the favor.

The gesture continued through the 18th century in England where it became customary to leave coins in a box at the entrance to a restaurant. The box was labeled "To Insure Prompt Service."

Later it was abbreviated to read "TIPS." Coins were deposited in the box in expectation of getting a table and a reasonable amount of service.

The amount of tip is determined by the service actually received. It is recommended that 15 to 20 percent be tipped for excellent service and adjusted downward as service declines.

Elimination of tipping in restaurants would not reduce, but would actually increase, the price of a meal.

Restaurateurs say they could not hire waiters and waitresses without paying them as much more in wages as they would have earned through tips.

The result is that 15 percent or more would be added to the menu prices or a service charge would be added to compensate. And, say restaurant owners, the customer could lose the option of rewarding for good service and admonishing for poor service.

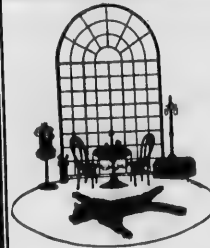

How To Tip

You have just finished a superb meal in a leading restaurant. As the obsequious waiter hovers at your right elbow and the wine steward smiles encouragingly on the left, you wonder nervously what to tip.

The question of tips is a touchy one. On the one hand, too small a tip may create a scene at the worst. At the least there is the specter of an indignant servant in your wake.

If the service is inadequate and you don't want to tip—don't. Or leave a token tip.

A tipping rule of thumb could be based on what kind of wages the servant receives. If the person works only for tips—and some do—and the service was excellent, be generous.

"Goodwill is the desire to return to the place where one has been well served."

Lotus Garden Adds Spice To Salem, N.H.

Tommy Chu, manager of the Lotus Garden in Salem, N.H., awaits patrons in the restaurant's casual but elegant atmosphere. Chu says the Lotus Garden offers a variety of Szechuan and Hunan cuisines, spicier than the Chinese food most Americans know. The menu has 143 items.

The Lotus Garden isn't like other Chinese restaurants, according to its manager, Tommy Chu.

The Salem, N.H., restaurant offers a variety of Szechuan and Hunan cuisines. Szechuan cuisine is spicier and more lively than the Cantonese Chinese food most American are used to, Chu said.

"Cantonese food came over with the railroad men, but they didn't have any Chinese staples to work with, so they used what they could. It is American Cantonese food," he said.

Located at 355 S. Broadway (Route 28), the Lotus Garden menu has 143 menu items, including house specialties.

These include Dragon and Phoenix, which is two dishes in one, featuring chunks of lobster in a sauce, and tender morsels of chicken sauteed in Hunan sauce.

Open just one month, the Lotus Garden is already attracting repeat business, as well as new patrons who heard about the restaurant from friends.

The Lotus Garden has a full liquor license but no bar. Drinks are served with meals.

"We offer family-style dining with a decent table cloth and decent service," Chu said.

He said most of the waiters were trained in New York City. The restaurant encourages leisurely dining, he added.

Chu says details are important—from the visual presentation of food to the ingredients used in its preparation.

The restaurant can also serve banquets for large or small parties.

The Lotus Garden has 25 luncheon specials served weekdays 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Credit cards are accepted.

Family Business Comes Long Way Since '40s

China Blossom in North Andover has seen a lot of changes since it was founded by the current owner's grandfather in the '40s.

China Blossom has come a long way since the family-owned business started on Main Street in Haverhill in the 1940s.

The restaurant, now located on Route 125 in North Andover, has seating capacity of 500, a considerable jump from its modest roots in Haverhill, where it could accommodate 40 patrons.

Started by Joseph Yee and his son, Arthur, the restaurant is now run by Arthur's son, Richard, at its new location.

Richard Yee says China Blossom has a new provincial menu, consisting of regional delicacies of the south of China in the Yangtze River area. It is called soohang cuisine and isn't like the ho-hum simplicity of average Chinese menus.

Yee says soohang cuisine is prepared with mild seasoning and delicate sauces with combinations of beef, poultry, fish and vegetables.

While you feast on these delicacies, take a minute to gaze around the main dining room. The decor includes traditional Chinese masks and opera instruments.

If you visit China Blossom in the evening, take some time to digest the delicious meal in the lounge, where you can dance Thursday through Saturday to contemporary music and Top 40 tunes.

If you're planning a holiday party, consider China Blossom's function room, with a seating capacity of 200. Call the restaurant for details.

Discover the Pleasures of Soo Hang Cuisine...

Regional Chinese specialties from Soochow and Hangchow, two cities famous not only for their beautiful scenery, but also for delicious food. Soo Hang Cuisine is one of the most popular cuisines of China using mild seasoning to bring out the natural flavor of the food. Among the treats you will be especially pleased to discover are West Lake Fish ... Hangchow Beef ... Cashew Chicken and Happy Family. Naturally if you prefer the traditional Chinese cuisines, China Blossom can fulfill your desires.

Kabobary Coast Brings New Ideas To Art Of Food

In an age where "upscale" foods are taking center stage, what once was a unique and taste-tantalizing marketing genre has become, through saturation, somewhat ordinary.

Enter Kabobary Coast. Located in the Village Mall on Route 28 in Methuen (immediately before Dunkin' Donuts), Kabobary Coast opened in the summer of '87. At the Coast, special orders really don't upset the management. In fact, they say they thrive on them.

Kabobary Coast is the brainchild of the Saba family of Methuen. Mity and Adele (Bashara) Saba stand along their sons, Chuck, Steven, Glenn and John, in the day-to-day operation of the business. Daughter Sharon Carter, daughters-in-law Robin and Cathy Saba and grandmother Annie, affectionately called Sit, round out the nucleus of the family staff.

They promise that a trip to Kabobary Coast will "expand your culinary horizons, stimulate your senses and excite your taste buds." And it will.

The unique market/restaurant concept encourages you to select from the vast displays of fresh and homemade delicacies and packaged specialties, as well as a wide variety of on-premises prepared ethnic foods (with the emphasis on Sit's Lebanese cuisine).

A customer may order one or two of several different items or a complete order of his or her personal favorite. It can be ordered on the premises or taken out hot or ready to heat and serve.

As the name implies, the Coast specializes in kabob cookery and features the traditional lamb and pork kabobs as well as sirloin, tenderloin, shrimp scallop and even quail. Moreover, you can browse through displays of exotic wines, beers, coffees, pastas, ice cream, pastries and other other unique imported, prepared and exotic food products.

The oldest of the Sabas' sons, Chuck, 33, is a veteran of the restaurant business, as is his brother Steven. Chuck says when he goes out to eat he often feels "locked into the menu." The concept at Kabobary Coast is to give the customer exactly what he or she wants. If you want a single, rolled grape leaf, fine; or choose from among a variety of different kabobs or a selection of appetizers.

If you don't want to eat at the restaurant, you may purchase the products as you would at any specialty market. A fixed menu has no place at the Kabobary Coast.

Steven Saba says people are often "scared off" by the price tags at specialty food stores. He said the entire product line at the Coast is priced competitively with or even below the same foods sold at supermarkets or specialty food stores.

Trumpeters: A Treat In Andover Country Club

Trumpeters restaurant, on the grounds of the aesthetically pleasing Andover Country Club, was established last February. Developed by country club owner Yvon Cormier, the restaurant was part of a major renovation of the entire facility. Twenty-four hotel rooms were added to the top level of the clubhouse.

The restaurant offers American and continental cuisine with menu items such as chateaubriand served tableside and Trumpeters' duck and veal a l'Oscar. Desserts are always a treat at Trumpeters as pastry chef Mark Lucas arrives before dawn to prepare fresh breads and pastries daily.

Trumpeters serves lunch Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and offers daily specials. Dinner is served Monday through Thursday from 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. with extended hours on Friday and Saturday until 10 p.m. A harpist plays in the dining room on weekend nights.

Eateries Have Long History

The history of public eating services is probably as ancient as the Old Testament, which frequently refers to inns.

"Restaurant" has its origin in the Latin root word "restaurare," meaning "to restore." In the 16th century, this word was applied to a spicy broth and called a "restorative beverage." Later it was applied to other "restorative" foods, especially gravy, soups, bouillions and similar preparations.

The honor for creating the first "businessman's lunch" apparently belongs to a chap named Segius Locates, a Roman innkeeper in 50 B.C. He devised the feature for ship brokers who were too busy to go home.

Some authorities claim that the "medieval" history of the restaurant industry began during the French Revolution in 1789, when dining aristocrats were fed in secret by their servants. These rendezvous became known to other aristocrats who were willing to pay a small charge for well-cooked meals.

In ancient times, there were places for public eating roughly similar to our restaurants. When people began making their homes in one place and occasionally traveling away from home, distinguishing them from nomads who had no real homes, they needed a place to eat and sleep en route. Thus early restaurants were usually in conjunction with sleeping accommodations.

Inns, hotels and monasteries of Europe served this function up to the 17th century. Chaucer's Canterbury

Eating Out Without Pigging Out

Your favorite restaurant with its luxurious decor, a solicitous maitre d', a chef famous for pound-producing sauces and congenial dinner companions need not crumble the determination of the most dedicated dieter, according to Elaine Robin, director of a weight-watching group in eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

"Special events provide a good opportunity to demonstrate that even the weight-conscious diner can enjoy eating out, provided he or she follows certain guidelines to avoid eating traps," Robin said.

Some of her "dining out" guidelines are as follows:

• Choose steak houses or seafood restaurants whenever possible.

If you go to another kind of restaurant you can always order meat, poultry or fish broiled and ask that your vegetables be prepared without butter.

• Don't pore over the menu. If you are on a weight reduction program, you know what you can have. Ask for it.

Be cordial to the maitre d' and send your compliments to the chef for helping you stay on your diet.

• Order a salad or coffee immediately.

• Move the basket of rolls to the other side of the table.

• If you have something to eat that meets your diet requirements, and if you are not confronted with the temptation to nibble, you will find it much easier to follow your food program.

• Be the first one in your party to order. This avoids the "me, too" syndrome and keeps you away from a major trap.

Giovanni's

Giovanni's also has imported coffees both Italy and around the world.

If it's lunch time, try Giovanni's delicious sandwiches or subs made with Italian bread to tantalize the tastebuds. Specialty pasta dishes are another tempting dish.

Pots of pasta are a great gift idea. What better way of remembering someone special?

Giovanni's serves fine imported wines to help you relax and savor the meal.

The Giovanni's management extends a warm welcome to all. "Eat, enjoy and be happy" is their motto.

pilgrims used to gather prior to their journeys to the shrine of St. Thomas A. Becket to dine and revel. They also held dinners there after they returned, at which time the best teller of stories during the pilgrimage was rewarded with a free meal and feted. This was the idea of the inn host, Barry Baileu, who went along on the trip to judge the best tales.

In England, commoners had patronized eating places called "ordinary" as far back as 1577. These were taverns which served only at specified mealtimes, usually between 1 and 4 p.m.

A noted ordinary frequented by literary figures in the 17th century was the Castle Ordinary. It burned down in 1666 and was rebuilt as Dolly's Chop House. It was famed for choice of beefsteaks and ales, Fielding, Defoe, Swift, Dryden, Pope, Gainsborough and Handel were steady customers of this Chop House.

When coffee was introduced to Europe, the restaurant function was taken over by coffee houses, which were popular in England from the 17th century on. In France, the "cafe" (coffee) arose. The first English coffee house was in St. Michael's Alley, Cornhill, owned by a Greek named Pasqua Rosee, who was the first to teach the method of roasting coffee and to introduce it in England.

The first public eating place to be designated as a restaurant was opened in Paris.

Colonial Silver Valued

Although their mother country was a world leader in silver manufacturing, it wasn't the first priority of the American colonies.

The austere life and the demands of establishing homes in the wilderness discouraged the development of the American silversmith. For this reason, silver of the American colonial period is extremely rare and valuable.

Much of the work of colonial silversmiths was devoted to supplying church silver. They closely followed traditional British design, except in New York, where the Dutch influence was felt.

By 1830 the industrial revolution affected silversmiths, as well as other craftsmen.

At the time, the words "coin," "pure coin" or "warranted" were used to indicate that the metal used was .900 pure—the same quality as coin from the United States mint.

As the country grew, American smiths became more dominant in the field of producing fine silver articles. In the 1850s silver manufacturers began classifying silver with the identification "sterling," signifying it as .925 silver and .075 other metals.

Thus, most silver marked "coin," "pure coin" or "warranted" was manufactured between 1830 and 1850. Although it varies slightly in silver content, generally it contains about .900 parts silver. It also frequently appears lighter in weight and more fragile than that marked "sterling."

Before hastening to sell your "coin" silver, it might be well to seek the advice of a qualified dealer in antique silver. In some cases, antique and artistic value will far exceed the value of silver content alone.
